NO. 252—SEVENTIETH YEAR VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1928 TWENTY-FOUR PAGES

NOVA SCOTIA GOVERNMENT'S RETURNED

Conservatives Elect 23 Members and Liberals 20—Former Majority Is Greatly Reduced

OUR MEMBERS OF CABINET DEFEATED

Premier Rhodes and Opposition Leader Chisholm Both Re-elected—Labor Candidates Lose Out

HALIFAX, Oct. 1.—The Conservative Government of Premier N. Rhodes was sustained by the one margin of three seats in the provincial elections today. The Government won twenty-three out of the forty-three seats contested, and the opposition, headed by Hon. William Chisholm, lost twenty seats. The Conservatives, thirty-seven; Liberals, three; and three seats vacant which had returned Conservatives in the election of 1925.

Four members of the Government are included in the administration's loss of seventeen seats. Hon. A. Walker, Minister of Natural Resources, was defeated in Halifax; Hon. J. P. Cahan, Assistant Minister of Highways, was elected in Yarmouth; Dr. W. N. Shefferson, Minister of Agriculture, lost in Lunenburg; and Dr. D. LeBlanc suffered defeat in Richmond.

The Liberals on the other hand, elected five former members of the Government, which went down to overwhelming defeat in the general election of 1925. Hon. William Chisholm was elected in Antigonish; Hon. A. MacMillan, a former Minister of Highways, was elected in Digby; Hon. A. Campbell, a former Provincial Secretary, was elected in Victoria; and J. J. Linley and J. Willie Comeau, two former members of the Government, were elected respectively in Lunenburg and Digby.

NO BY-ELECTIONS

The Government has appealed to the electorate two years before the expiration of the term of the Legislature, and the Opposition has charged throughout the campaign leading up to the election at the Government had broken its pledges of non-partisanship, economy and reform.

As a result of legislation passed by the Government it will not be necessary for the ministers to return to their constituencies for re-election.

In the constituency of Antigonish, Premier Rhodes was re-elected, while Premier Chisholm was elected in the constituency of Lunenburg. Labor candidates who had contested seats in the Cape Breton riding were defeated.

RESULT BY CONSTITUENCIES

Conservatives elected—Annapolis, Hants, 2; Colchester, 2; Queens, Cape Breton Centre, 2; Kings, 2; Lunenburg, 2; Antigonish, 2; Shelburne, 2; Yarmouth, 2; Victoria, 2.

By-Election Date For Victoria May Be Settled Today

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—The regular weekly meeting of the Cabinet will take place tomorrow, but it is doubtful whether it will result in the fixing of the date for the by-election in Victoria, necessitated by the resignation of Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia, from the Federal House.

General Council Of Trades Unions Elects Mr. Tillet

BIRMINGHAM, Oct. 1.—Ben Tillet, one of the dynamic forces in British trade unionism, tonight was elected chairman of the general council of the Trades Union Congress. He succeeds Ben Turner.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY GATHERS IN CONVENTION

Confidence Voted in Simon Commission—Mr. MacDonald States Attitude Toward India's Claims

COMMUNISTS AND LIBERALS BANNED

(Canadian Press Cable)

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 1.—The annual conference of the Labor party today voted confidence in the Simon Commission, on the basis of a paragraph in the commission's report dealing with the appointment of the commission headed by Sir John Simon.

The vote was 100 to 100, with a card vote by 3,000,000 to 150,000.

Right Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the party, said the present commission was "a more democratic than any former commission, and the Labor representatives on the commission, Vernon Harshaw and Major C. R. Atlee, would do their best to build a golden bridge for India, which would make that country captain of her own salvation."

There is one thing I would like to say and it is time I said it, the former Labor Premier continued. "As long as I hold any position in the parliamentary party, I am not going to take any instructions from any outside body unless I agree with it."

STRIKE FAILS IN AUSTRALIA

FARMERS ARRIVE IN THOUSANDS AT PORT TO LOAD CARGO DELAYED

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 1.—The strike of waterborne workers collapsed at the ports of Adelaide and Mackay today.

The decision of a mass meeting of trade unionist dockworkers to call a strike at Adelaide did not come soon enough to prevent a shutdown of the Holden Motor Body Works, which employs three thousand workers. A shortage of materials caused through the dockers' strike was responsible for the shutdown.

The strikers at Mackay decided to resume work when thousands of farmers arrived at that port to load a large accumulation of sugar.

Friend Greater Peril Than Four Years' War

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 1.—Albert B. Cooper, thirty-five, who went through four years of front line action with a Canadian regiment during the World War without a wound, was shot to death yesterday at Marshfield, Ore., accidentally.

A bullet fired by a friend splattered and inflicted a fatal wound in one arm in the war veteran's chest.

The only surviving member of his company.

"Punk" Humphrey, also of Powers, fired his rifle at a moving object fifty yards away and the bullet splattered, three pieces hitting Cooper. Humphrey was held on an open charge.

Aid for West Indies

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The Canadian Press was informed today that information is being collected by the British Government with a view to obtaining some accurate idea of the damage caused by the recent hurricane in the British West Indies.

All necessary steps will be taken to assist the inhabitants of the islands who suffered in the hurricane, it was said.

CITY SEEKING COSTLY PORT IMPROVEMENT

Proposal to Build North Mole of Breakwater and Erect New Pier Near Present Structures Adopted

ENGINEER ASKED TO MAKE REPORT

Acquisition of Rithet Docks as Public Undertaking Is to Be Recommended to Ottawa Authorities

THE most ambitious programme of port development to be proposed since the construction of the Ogden Point piers and breakwater at a cost of $6,500,000, was unveiled at last night's meeting of the City Council by Alderman H. O. Litchfield, chairman of the industrial committee, in presenting the report of that committee.

The committee's report, which was adopted by the council, calls for the erection of the north breakwater, building of another pier, raising the height of the present piers, connecting Ogden Point with Rithet Piers by railway, acquisition by the Government of the Rithet piers, and for a Dominion Government engineer to be sent to Victoria to make a survey of the situation.

The committee's recommendation is as follows:

"That the Dominion Government be approached with a view to improving and extending the dockage facilities at Ogden Point piers, and that immediate action be asked for on the following necessary work:

"That the height of all piers at Ogden Point be raised three feet. In this connection it might be noted that the new grain elevator at Ogden Point has been constructed with this in view.

HEAVY RAIN IS WELCOME HERE

Water and Power Supply Officials and Forestry Department Breathe More Freely

DOWNPOUR LASTS SEVENTEEN HOURS

After an unusually dry summer, the heavy rainfall of yesterday brought happiness to forestry officials, and to those responsible for water and power supply.

When it is recalled that only 68 of an inch fell in the month of August and September, and 71 of an inch in the seventeen hours of rain, it is not surprising that a change of weather will be appreciated.

According to the records at Gonzales Observatory, the heaviest downpour was at 4:37, when one-fourth of an inch fell, equivalent to 12 inches an hour. From 4 to 5 o'clock one-fifth of an inch fell.

An inch of rain represents 113 tons to the acre, so the value to the horticulturalist can be readily appreciated.

IMPORTANCE TO POWER

To few organizations in Victoria did the downpour come more acceptable than to the British Columbia Electric Railway, as it has been necessary to use the auxiliary steam plant at Brentwood Bay for some time to take care of the power supply here. Conditions at Jordan River have necessarily been abnormal in a long dry summer.

WELCOMED BY FORESTERS

Officials of the forest branch of the Department of Lands were pleased with the changed conditions locally, the rain being welcomed by them as promising an end to their troubles for this season as far as forest fires are concerned. The hope was expressed that the rain would be general throughout the province, as far as the coast districts were concerned was glad tidings for them.

The latest official report as to the conditions issued from the department towards the end of last week stated as follows:

"While there has been rain along the Northern Coast, the weather over the balance of the province has been warm with cool nights."

The close season ends on September 30, but owing to the lack of seasonal rains, the public is requested to be particularly careful in the use of fire. Hunters are also cautioned in this respect, as open country is still very hazardous from noon until sunset."

The fire to date this year have been 1,578 as compared with 1,421 in 1927, and 2,121 in 1926.

ENOUGH SAID

TOKIO, Oct. 1.—The Reuters correspondent learned today that as the Japanese Government had already given notice informally of its agreement in principle with the Anglo-French naval accord Tokyo did not intend to make a further pronouncement on the subject.

Unveiling of Cairn In Dripping Forest A Picturesque Rite

"IT is fitting that we should recognize the tremendous services of our pioneers, who by means of peaceful penetration, and by virtue of their ruggedness and strength of character, preserved and handed on to us the rich heritage which we possess today. We are pleased to honor and commemorate such men as Lieutenant Peter Leech and his party," said His Honor Lieutenant-Governor R. Randolph Bruce yesterday morning in unveiling at Leechtown the B.C. Historical Society's cairn commemorating the discovery of gold there sixty-four years ago.

It was a picturesque scene. With a spirit worthy of the pioneer gold-seekers whose feat of 1864 they were commemorating, sixty-five people, representative of various historical and patriotic bodies, ventured into the dripping forest to attend the ceremony. The teeming skies but added to the impressiveness of the occasion, demonstrating the keen enthusiasm of the various individuals who composed the group gathered in the little clearing, in the midst of which the monument had been erected. A big Union Jack on the cairn and other smaller flags

OBJECTION TO LICENCE MADE

Hon. W. D. Euler States Distillery Will Not Be Given Licence If B.C. Objects

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 1.—Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, stated today that alleged remarks of Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney-General of British Columbia, with respect to alleged co-operation of the Dominion Government with liquor law-breakers on the Pacific Coast, were not understood by him.

Dispatches from Vancouver credit Mr. Pooley with refusing to establish new distilleries in British Columbia.

"Licensing of new distilleries hardly comes within the province of Mr. Pooley," commented Mr. Euler.

"Such licensing is within Federal jurisdiction, but when we receive applications, we invariably take the matter up with the provincial government involved and in every way endeavor to co-operate with the leads of that government. If a provincial government should object to a distillery, I am certain we would take cognizance of the objection and refuse to grant it."

Vancover Contest

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1.—This is not a fight of itself against Mr. Taylor or of one set of associations against another set of associations, but rather a fight of all of us, a recent-thinking, hard-headed, common sense citizens, for a mayor and council who will, with dignity and ability, worthily represent Greater Vancouver during the first few years of its history.

In such words Dr. W. H. Melkin, candidate for the mayoralty of Greater Vancouver, defined the issue of the campaign, in addressing a meeting that packed the ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver tonight.

CHILLIWACK, B.C., Oct. 1.—George Stapleton and three other persons in his car narrowly escaped death on the Vedder Mountain highway, fourteen miles east of Abbotsford, when Mr. Stapleton swerved his auto quickly to avoid striking into a car ahead that had stopped suddenly. When he had almost brought his car to a stop it slipped down a steep grassy decline plunged down a forty-foot cliff and crashed into the B.C.E.R. track.

Indian Agent A. O. N. Daunt of New Westminster, and Constable H. J. Harding of this city were at the scene of the accident. Unable to descend the cliff they walked down the road and back on the track for a mile before reaching the victims.

Charles Markley, of Qualicum Beach, Vancouver Island, was unconscious when the automobile, which was completely wrecked, was brought to the hospital here.

RECOVERED CONSCIOUSNESS

Mr. Stapleton, Miss Ethel Stainton and Miss Eva Jones were lying beneath the wreckage, having been forced out during the plunge. Mr. Stapleton was unconscious but both girls were recovering consciousness. Constable Harding flagged the Chilliwack train just in time to prevent another accident as all four victims were on the track.

The crash was caused by an auto ahead of Mr. Stapleton's car meeting a car on a strip of road too narrow for one to pass the other.

FOREIGN SEC'Y SEES HOLLYWOOD

Sir Austen Chamberlain Guest of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—After a brief visit in Southern California, seeing how movies are made, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and his party left from San Pedro tonight aboard the President Adams for San Francisco. In San Francisco they will be the guests of William H. Crocker, multi-millionaire sugar man for ten days before continuing to Canada and thence home to England.

The Chamberlains, Sir Austen, Lady Chamberlain, their son Lawrence and their daughter Diane, were overnight guests at the home of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks.

RETURN BY TRAIN

PEACE RIVER, Alta., Oct. 1.—Major A. E. Godfrey and Sergeant Graham arrived here by motorboat at 2:30 this afternoon. They will go to Edmonton tomorrow.

Nairobi Greeted Two Princes on African Journey

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, East Africa, Oct. 1.—A tableau full of barbaric color greeted the Prince of Wales and his younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester, when they arrived here today on their good will trip. Just before the royal visitors appeared, four headmen of the Kenya tribes, in full war paint and regalia, took positions in frames half-way up the main welcoming arch. They posed with dramatic fierceness of expression as the princes passed through the arch. School children, assembled in the center of the town, gave the King's sons a rousing ovation. Boy scouts lined part of the route, and former service men and women flanked the cortege. These latter were under the leadership of Colonel Gerry Driscoll, whose "Driscoll Scouts" won fame in the Boer war.

STAGE SET FOR LAW BATTLE IN OTTAWA TODAY

Jurisdiction Over Immense Water Rights of St. Lawrence and Ottawa to Be Determined

ALL SUPREME COURT JUDGES ASSEMBLED

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—The stage is all set for the opening tomorrow of the battle before the Supreme Court of Canada on the question of Dominion and Provincial rights to water powers. The matter of water powers incidental to navigation is the main issue with the authority of the Dominion over navigation also included.

Chief Justice Anglin and all members of the judiciary of the Supreme Court will be on the bench when the case opens, while the Federal Government and the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia will be represented by counsel.

The issue of Dominion and Provincial jurisdiction is probably one of the most important which has come before the courts in years. On both sides it is generally conceded that ultimately the question will be carried to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in England.

PRINCE GEORGE AT BAHAMA CAPITAL

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 1.—For the first time since 1861 this far-flung outpost of the British Empire has had today a member of the Royal family in the person of Prince George, who arrived as an officer aboard H.M.S. Durban.

The vessel was sent here to inspect hurricane damage and the Prince was scheduled to make an official visit to this city during the afternoon. Prince Alfred, son of Queen Victoria, was the last previous royal visitor to come here.

FLIGHT EFFORT FAILS

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—Forced to give up their attempt to break the world record for sustained flight because of lack of gas caused by leakage, William Brock and Edward Schlee landed at Rockwell Field tonight at 6:22 o'clock. They had been in the air 58 hours 8 minutes, and would have had to remain aloft until 1:55 tomorrow morning to set a new endurance record.

Audit of Provincial Accounts Ordered by Minister of Finance

Complete Statements Will Be Prepared by Helliwell, MacLachlan & Company Covering All Administrative Activities of British Columbia

Examination of Cost Plus Contracts Of Late Ministry To Be Conducted

AN appraisal of the assets of the province, and a complete investigation and special audit of the accounts of the province will be proceeded with at once. The announcement that this shall take place, made by Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, follows up the assurance that was given the public during the late election by Hon. S. F. Tolmie that he would, if returned to power, have the financial position of the province thoroughly investigated so that there might be no misunderstanding on the matter.

The well known auditing firm of Helliwell, MacLachlan & Company has been entrusted with the duty, and in explaining the loss of time to make the investigation.

The scope of the task assigned to this firm, which is the largest of its kind west of the Great Lakes, all British Columbia men will take in all the different activities that have been associated with the Government of British Columbia. Mr. Shelly, in explaining the ramifications of the investigation, said:

SCOPE OF INQUIRY

"The scope of the investigation will include the Land Settlement Board, Liquor Control Board, the Workmen's Compensation Board, the various Provincial Government departments, the South Okanagan Project and the various irrigation schemes carried out under the Conservation Fund, also the Department of Industries."

"It will also embrace a complete audit of sinking funds and superannuation fund, etc. and a complete financial statement of the affairs of the Province will be made up to August 31. This statement will include an examination into the cost plus contracts awarded by the late Government on the University road contracts, Sumas Diking Project, etc. The auditors will start their work forthwith."

INVESTIGATION PROMISED

During the progress of the late campaign differences of opinion were constantly expressed as to the exact position of affairs with respect to financial matters. It was even asserted that the Ministers in the late Government were not always in accord as to the figures. Dr. Tolmie then authorized the statement that he would have a full investigation made so that not only the Government might know exactly the position of affairs, but that there might be the information imparted to the citizens of the Province as to precisely how things stood in a financial way.

Venezelos Says Powers Approve Friendship Pacts

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Premier Venezelos of Greece, announced here that Great Britain had joined France in approving his policy of concluding friendship pacts with Italy and other Mediterranean neighbors of Greece. He made the announcement after an interview with Lord Cusden, acting Foreign Minister.

The previous notices had been sent out during the Liberal regime. It was stated.

The Civil Service Act as now read by Mr. Cusden means that retirement is compulsory at the age of sixty-five and in any event it does not apply to those who were engaged prior to 1920.

Superannuation Held Not to Be Compulsory At Age of Sixty-Five

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 1.—Notices to several Provincial Government employees in Vancouver that they would be superannuated on account of attaining the age of sixty-five were sent out through inadvertence, according to letters received from a Civil Service commissionist, Victoria.

The previous notices had been sent out during the Liberal regime. It was stated.

The Civil Service Act as now read by Mr. Cusden means that retirement is compulsory at the age of sixty-five and in any event it does not apply to those who were engaged prior to 1920.

MR. WINN CHOSEN ON PENSION BOARD

Chairman of Compensation Board Will Represent British Columbia on National Body

Mr. E. S. H. Winn will represent the Province of British Columbia on the National Board overseeing under the Old Age Pensions Act. This action was decided upon yesterday following a conference which was attended by Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Minister of Labor, Mr. J. D. McEwen, Deputy Minister of Labor, and Mr. Winn, who as the chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board is charged with the administration of the old age pensions in the province.

The request was made of the province to name a representative on the national board which is being constituted at Ottawa and which will be representatives of the provinces that are operating old age pensions acts. There are only three of these provinces eligible to be represented as yet, namely, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. These three provinces brought into effect an act in May and Manitoba's act came into effect September 1.

It is anticipated that on one will fall in line with the movement and that at the coming session of the Legislature a bill will be introduced covering the subject of pensions to old persons.

Mr. McKenzie said he felt that the appointment of Mr. Winn was the wisest choice that could be made in view of the fact that he was most familiar with the working of the act than anyone else in the province. This is shown by the fact that the Province of Saskatchewan asked that Mr. Winn be allowed to lend that province assistance in getting the act in working order offering to bear the expenses so incurred.

Coincidentally the naming of Mr. Winn on the national board yesterday afternoon a message came from Hon. Peter Herwin, Minister of Labor at Ottawa, asking who was to be appointed by British Columbia. The

GRAND FORKS APPEALS TO GOVERNMENT

Provincial Ministry Petitioned to Intervene in Power Rate Dispute in South Interior B.C.

The power rate dispute which is raging in the Southern Interior of British Columbia and involving enormous industrial operations was taken past the courts today direct to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council in a petition, signed by Grand Forks, B.C. The petition places responsibility for the present chaotic conditions in the Interior power supply on the shoulders of former Provincial Government action in effect, asks Premier Tolmie and his colleagues to straighten out the situation, prevent the threatened stoppage of retirement, new areas and place the future supply on a sound, equitable basis. The Cabinet is formally requested to accomplish this by the Grand Forks Power and Light Company, the area in which the West Kootenay Power & Light Company is selling power to all its present consumers.

EMERGENCY ALLEGED

This step Grand Forks argues is necessary because the Supreme Court and the water board have held that the power company must not sell power outside a limited area around Rossland thus threatening darkness to the Southern Okanagan, Grand Forks, Altonby and neighboring communities.

The Grand Forks move initiated here today with a formal appeal by its solicitor, F. A. McDiarmid, to the Provincial Secretary's Department, gave the Grand Forks and the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company.

"That a wooden guard or bumper be placed all round the face of the piers at Ogden Point."

"That arrangements be made for rail connection between Ogden Point piers and the Outer Docks."

"That arrangements be made for the building of a new pier south of the present wharves owned by R. P. Rithet & Company, and that the whole of the Outer Wharf property owned by R. P. Rithet & Company be taken over by the Dominion Government."

WANT NEW BREAKWATER

"That a new breakwater be constructed, running south from Macaulay Point, and"

"That the Dominion Government be requested to send an expert engineer to Victoria to make a survey and report upon these requests immediately."

The report was signed by Aldermen H. O. Litchfield, chairman, J. B. Clearhue, E. S. Woodward and John Harvey.

VITAL TO PORT

"We are simply asking the Government to send out their engineer and investigate along the lines of our report. I am speaking of a serious matter and one that affects the progress of this port," Alderman Litchfield stated.

Alderman Woodward pointed to the need of the present Ogden Point piers being raised another three feet by alluding to the construction of the grain elevator which is being carried along lines to permit of the elevating of the present piers, which were most unsuitable for shipping.

Alderman Mara said, "I don't know whether I want to vote for this report or not. I am not prepared. I think we should have more information."

"Let's get action. Let's get action," Alderman Mara retorted.

When the vote was taken everyone, except Alderman Mara, voted for the recommendations.

Loud applause greeted Mr. MacDonald's remark.

FRAMING PLATFORM

The Labor party held the centre of the political stage today when the annual conference of the party began to consider the policy of which Labor candidates will appeal for endorsement at next year's general election. The opening address of the chairman, George Lansbury, appealed for unity in the party.

The Labor member for Bow and Bromley emphasized to the delegates that in a democratic movement the majority must rule. The Labor party, if it regained power in Great Britain, would "hold out the hand of friendship to the Russians," Mr. Lansbury said, but British Labor leaders entirely disavowed the proposal to apply Bolshevik methods of organization to Great Britain.

NO TERMS WITH LIBERALS

Mr. Lansbury frowned upon a coalition with the Liberal party, stating that any attempt to unite the forces of Labor with the "decayed remains of Liberalism" was "foredoomed to failure."

"Our one and only aim is Socialism," the chairman said. "To this goal all other parties are violently opposed; so, between them and us, there can be no coalition or combination."

Mr. Lansbury turned his guns on the British Communists, whom he regarded as enemies of the party.

"There is no such thing as dual loyalty," he said. "Therefore the Communists are unlikely to rejoin our ranks until their policy of action has changed. They entered the field against us politically and industrially."

conference was proceeding when the message reached Mr. McKenzie and he was able at once to acquaint the Federal minister with the results of the conference.

In connection with the working of the act, the information was given by Minister of Labor that already since the coming into effect of the act in the province there has been paid in pensions the sum of $629,287.43. The cost of administering the act in connection with the outlay of this sum has been only 2.37 per cent. In one month the operations were reduced to only 1.37 per cent, which the minister regarded as a very creditable record.

The new national board, which is to be created, will act in an advisory way in seeking to improve the operation of the act, and in suggesting changes in administration which would be productive of the better working out of the measure of relief to be afforded.

RAILWAY MERGER WAITS DECISION

Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads Seek to Unify Systems

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 1.—The merger proceedings of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern Railways enter their last phase on Wednesday at Washington, D.C., when the Interstate Commerce Commission will hear arguments of the railways, state commissions and other intervenors.

The Northern lines contend that economies aggregating more than $10,000,000 annually can be effected through the proposed unification. It is urged by advocates of the plan that these economies, together with expected increases in volume of business, will make it possible for shippers and producers along the unified system to obtain more favorable rates and at the same time enable the unified road to earn more nearly fair returns.

Transportation needs and traffic conditions in the Northwest are peculiar, the Northern lines have contended. The point out that the Northwest is primarily a producing section, sparsely settled and far removed from the consuming markets, and must compete with other regions more advantageously located and served by strong railroad systems. Traffic and operating conditions, they say, make for lower railway earnings.

The $10,000,000 savings would result principally from the re-routing of traffic over shorter and most economical routes, reduction of terminals, common use of extensive coal properties of the Northern Pacific standardization of equipment, increasing programme of manufacturing own equipment, and elimination of various activities now duplicated.

DELAY EXPECTED

Northern line officials here are reluctant to predict when a decision will be forthcoming. The prevailing opinion seems to be that in view of the voluminous testimony introduced in the case, a decision can be expected before the first of the year. Some officials hint out that inasmuch as the decision is likely to establish far-reaching precedents, the commission may require many months to reach a conclusion.

In view of the failure of Congress to pass legislation encouraging voluntary rail mergers as requested by President Coolidge and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the present case is expected to involve a sweeping interpretation of many mooted phases of the present law which was passed in 1920. The intent of the 1920 law was to bring about the consolidation of all railroads into a limited number of strong competing systems which would be able to give the public improved service at lower rates.

Among the questions the commission will be called upon to decide in the present case is whether the 1920 law is sufficiently broad to cover the proposal before it, whether there would remain a reasonable amount of competition in the territories affected, whether the merger would result in an undue disturbance of established routes and channels of trade, and finally whether it is in the public interest.

Northern lines officials here and in the East are known to be optimistic as to the outcome. It is generally conceded in railway circles that all of the merger proposals that have been before the commission in recent years, almost all of which have been rejected on grounds which do not appear to apply in this case.

ANOTHER UN- SOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a safe "sure-cure" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute:

April 4, 1927.

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure cure for constipation, and know it is a remarkable regulator for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. It is so good for me as well as for my mother, my sister, my brother, and my friends."

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. M. E. KIELL.
(Address on request.)

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Brightness, health, happiness, and good health. Marrying beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than fifty serious cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

conference was proceeding when the message reached Mr. McKenzie and he was able at once to acquaint the Federal minister with the results of the conference.

In connection with the working of the act, the information was given by Minister of Labor that already since the coming into effect of the act in the province there has been paid in pensions the sum of $629,287.43. The cost of administering the act in connection with the outlay of this sum has been only 2.37 per cent. In one month the operations were reduced to only 1.37 per cent, which the minister regarded as a very creditable record.

The new national board, which is to be created, will act in an advisory way in seeking to improve the operation of the act, and in suggesting changes in administration which would be productive of the better working out of the measure of relief to be afforded.

OVER CONFIDENCE

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Premier of Nova Scotia, gave the Canadian Press tonight the following statement:

"The returns would indicate that we suffered because of over confidence of our supporters who were so certain of the return of the Government that they did not put forth the same effort as would have been the case had they thought the issue of the campaign would have been closer. Moreover, the returns would appear to indicate that the revision of the voters' list, which had been left in the hands of the municipal authorities, had resulted in the lists not containing the names of a very large number of Conservatives, at least sufficient to affect the result in a number of constituencies. The best evidence of this is the fact that many citizens of Halifax, of the best standing, found today that their names were not on the list. The Government will reap the benefit in the next few years of progressive policies which they initiated, the effects of which will be more apparent to the electors in future years."

OTTAWA COMMENT

Oct. 1. Premier Rhodes' small majority was a surprise to both parties here. Conservatives had been assured he would carry not less than thirty seats, and had been warned to expect not more than thirteen Liberals elected. No explanation is offered by either, but a review of the constituencies shows that there was a large Acadian vote the Conservatives lost, and their victories were in the constituencies where the English element largely predominated. There were many disgruntled Conservatives who were not satisfied with the administration of the government, and the wholesale dismissal of Liberal office holders and their replacement by Conservatives.

Suggestions for Fire Protection Meet Criticism

CITY Engineer F. M. Preston has been asked to make a full report on the suggestions contained in the British Columbia Fire Underwriters' Association report with regard to fire protection in Victoria, it was announced today by the city council last night by the water committee. The report further stated that the engineer estimated the cost of carrying out the suggestions made by the underwriters would be approximately $250,000.

"This is simply a smoke screen to head off the council from getting a lower rate of fire insurance for the citizens of Victoria," Alderman Woodward, chairman of the committee, declared.

OPPOSITION VIGOROUS

On the other hand, the opposition, represented principally by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway, has been vigorous and elaborately prepared. Strong public sentiment has been expressed both for and against the merger. The state commissions which filed briefs opposing it, all except Washington are states in which the two Northern lines have little or no trackage and in which Milwaukee trackage predominates. The Oregon commission has actively supported the proposal, while the commissions of Idaho, Montana and North Dakota, which have followed the proceedings closely, have voiced no opposition. The Minnesota commission introduced one opposing witness, but took no further part. The Wisconsin commission, against the proposal, while Superior, the only Wisconsin city affected, is supporting it.

An active campaign to arouse opposition to Northwest cities was waged by the Milwaukee road. In St. Paul the city administration appeared in opposition to the proposed merger, while the Greater St. Paul committee supported it. Minneapolis, Spokane and Seattle expressed no opposition. Portland, Ore., advocated the merger, while Tacoma, Wash., opposed it, primarily on the grounds that it did not provide for the unification of terminals of all railways in that city. In Montana the principal cities, Butte, Helena and Great Falls, filed no objections. Other cities, counties, chambers of commerce and civic organizations to the number of ninety-six intervened in support of the merger. Of these eighty-three favored the merger while ten were opposed.

FEAR FOR PAYROLLS

Some of the opposition, notably that of St. Paul, which is the headquarters of the two Northern lines, was prompted by the fear that unification might affect local railway payrolls.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway has contended that the proposed unification failed to conform with the requirements of the Transportation Act; that it would create an "unbalanced" competitive situation in the Northwest, affording unequal competitive opportunity and enabling the unified system to prosper on rates that would be injurious to the Milwaukee, that a substantial portion of them lines could be effected without unification, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to sanction any rail merger in the Northwest that did not provide for some satisfactory assignment of the Milwaukee.

CONFISCATION OF AUTOMOBILE IS REQUESTED

Seeks Order on Motor Car
Driven by Leighton Miles,
Convicted on Liquor Act
Charge Here

DECISION WILL BE ANNOUNCED TODAY

Magistrate George Jay will give his decision this morning in the provincial police court on the application of Crown Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison for an order confiscating the automobile in which Leighton Miles, Victoria taxi driver, had liquor not sealed with the official Government seal, on the night of September 27. The motor car was seized by the Provincial Police when they arrested Miles at the intersection of Admiral's Road and the Island Highway.

In the provincial court yesterday, Mr. Harrison said he proposed to ask for a confiscation order on the automobile driven by Roy Morrison, who was convicted and fined for having unsealed liquor in his possession, but would stand the matter over until after the decision in the Miles case was given.

"There is a third car which the police seized, driven by Charles Cronk, who also was fined in this court for being in possession of unsealed liquor. I will bring the matter of confiscating the car up tomorrow, and will notify the owner of the machine," Mr. Harrison stated.

Crown Prosecutor Harrison moved that the motor car driven by Miles and seized by the Provincial Police be ordered confiscated, under authority given in Section 76 of the Government Liquor Act.

Mr. W. H. Bullock-Webster, who appeared on behalf of two firms which have a lien interest in the automobile, said "Section 76 leaves it wholly in your discretion, Your Honor, whether the automobile shall be confiscated or not. The section says the magistrate may declare the automobile so seized to be forfeited to His Majesty."

Mr. Bullock-Webster said the car was not the property of the accused Miles, at all. The firm's counsel represented had a lien note on the machine, and $1,769.12 was the amount owing the firm by the owner at the present time. The purchase price of the car was $4,915. It would be unfair and unjust to his clients to order the car confiscated, for they then would not be able to recover the amount owing them.

Mr. Stuart Henderson said he represented Knut Henry, the owner of the car.

Knut Henry took the witness stand, and said he owned the sedan which had been seized by the Provincial Police. Miles was a taxi driver in his employ. Henry said he knew nothing of the trip Miles made with the unsealed liquor, nor of any liquor having been in the car. Witness stated he was not in arrears with his payments on the car. He said he didn't know the accused was going to deliver fifty bottles, and the first he had heard of it was in court.

Witness admitted he had been convicted of selling liquor on May 14, 1928, but said the car was not used in transporting liquor. To his knowledge beer had never been conveyed in the car to any place.

Mr. Henderson submitted that there was no evidence to show on what charge the car was seized, and there was no evidence that the owner of the car knew to what use the car was being put at the time Miles was arrested. Counsel asked that the car be released from confiscation.

Naturalization Refused

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1.—Naturalization was refused today by Judge Grant to Frank Agostino, 346 Union Street.

Accompanied by two sponsors, Agostino, who was born in Mammola, Italy, and arrived in Vancouver thirteen years ago, applied for Canadian citizenship in naturalization court.

Judge Grant stated that he had been advised by the Secretary of State for Canada that the applicant would not be desirable as a Canadian citizen.

Both sponsors expressed surprise at this revelation, and with His Honor's permission retired from the case.

ture of the days of six and a half decades ago when the sandy bar was alive with miners.

PARTY STARTS OUT

The party left Victoria at 9 o'clock yesterday morning by the C.N.R. train. Arriving at Leechtown at 10.30 the Lieutenant-Governor and the official representatives of the various organizations were formally welcomed by Mr. John Cragg, picturesque "Mayor of Leechtown," who promptly conducted them to the site of the cairn, a quarter of a mile distant through the woods. Midway across the low bridge which spans the Leech he stopped for a moment to point out the spot where the first nugget of gold was discovered by Lieutenant Leech and his expedition.

The ceremony at the cairn began a few minutes before eleven, on the platform with Lieutenant-Governor Bruce being Mr. John Hsieh, provincial archivist; Mr. Beaumont Boggs, president of the B.C. Historical Association; Mrs. Faucault, of Waihatin, a daughter of Lieutenant Peter Leech, and her son, Mr. Faucault; and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn.

Before introducing His Honor, and after expressing the regrets of the Hon. S. F. Tolmie at his inability to be present, Mr. Hsieh recited the history of the incidents leading up to the occasion, recalling that about a year ago, at the suggestion of the Hon. Mr. Justice Martin, the Historical Society had decided to erect a monument at that spot to commemorate the discovery of gold at Leechtown in 1864, and to recall "a long-closed but fascinating chapter of our island history." In 1864 at the suggestion of Governor Kennedy, several public-spirited citizens in Victoria had formed themselves into a committee and organized a fund for the exploration of Vancouver Island. A considerable sum of money was raised, the Government contributing dollar for dollar. Dr. Brown, of Edinburgh, was appointed commander of the expedition, which split into several parties. Lieutenant Peter J. Leech's party was the first to discover gold, at the junction of the Leech and Sooke Rivers. The publication of the report was followed by a stampede of gold miners from all over the country, Nanaimo, Portland, California, and even farther afield. In the space of two months the whole of the Leech River was being panned, and between two and three thousand miners were working on the bar.

A RESOURCEFUL OFFICER
"I need not say that Lieutenant Leech amply justified the confidence placed in him by Commander Brown. His letters preserved in the archives department show that he was a most efficient, capable and resourceful officer. He later became a city engineer of Victoria, and we are honored today by having with us his daughter, Mrs. Faucault, of Waihatin, B.C., and her son, said Mr. Hsieh, whose reference to Mr. Faucault was interrupted by His Honor calling for three cheers for their guest.

Mr. Hsieh also spoke of Frederick Whymper's clever water color paintings and etchings, some of which have come into the possession of the archives and form a valuable record of the old Leechtown days and other early Vancouver Island history. It was hoped soon to add some more of these to the collection. Without the assistance of such pictures it was difficult to visualize today the busy scenes of the valley following the discovery of gold, although it was known that at one time Leechtown had six or seven stores, several hotels, and as many as thirty saloons. Today nothing of all this survives but the tumble-down remains of the gold commissioner's house, built in November or December, 1864.

Introducing the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. Hsieh paid a cordial tribute to the keen interest which His Honor had shown in matters historic. No one in Canada was more enthusiastic about the activities in preserving the memory of the hardy Canadian pioneers, and linking with the British Columbia organization the name of the Historic Sites and Monuments Society of Ottawa "for the great service they are rendering the community" in erecting monuments and shrines to old pioneers.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO SOCIETY

Standing bareheaded in the rain, Lieutenant-Governor Bruce acknowledged the applause which greeted his introduction, immediately proceeding to pay tribute to the Historical Society for its activities in preserving the memory of the hardy Canadian pioneers, and linking with the British Columbia organization the name of the Historic Sites and Monuments Society of Ottawa "for the great service they are rendering the community" in erecting monuments and shrines to old pioneers.

"I doubt if without such men as Sir George Simpson, Sir Alexander Fraser, Captain Vancouver and Captain Cook, this Union Jack would be flying here," he said, indicating the flag overhead. It was fitting that the memories of such men should be commemorated, for a nation without sentiment must soon cease to be a nation. Canada was winning recognition throughout the world today as a fine sample of young nationhood, and she would do well to dwell sometimes on those who laid the foundations of her greatness, particularly here in the West. It was because of this that they should pay tribute to the Historical Association for resurrecting the memory of the pioneers, for it was with the soul of the past that the present of a nation lives.

His Honor then released the cord, and the flag draping the monument fell to one side, revealing the cairn and the inscribed tablet inset, which reads as follows:
"Memorial erected by the B.C. Historical Association on the site of the Gold Commissioner's house to commemorate discovery of gold on Sooke River by Lt. P. J. Leech, July, 1864, and to mark site of Leechtown which sprang up following the discovery. Unveiled by Hon. R. Bruce, Lt.-Gov. of B.C."

DAUGHTER OF DISCOVERER

Mrs. Faucault, daughter of Lieut. Peter Leech, spoke very briefly in acknowledgment of the tribute paid to her father and in appreciation of the invitation given her to attend the proceedings, also specially thanking Mr. Norman Fraser, of the C.N.R., for help given.

Mr. Beaumont Boggs, president of the Historical Society, thanked His Honor for officiating at the unveiling. In his short address he regretted that there was any attempt being made to belittle the work of the pioneers; it had particularly surprised him that a professor of British Columbia should take an adverse attitude on any movement to preserve the history of early Canada.

A number of photographers took pictures of the group while the Mayor of Leechtown presented to His Honor an illuminated vellum with some of his own verses commemorating the occasion. Later, when the guests were gathered in the picturesque log "Town Hall," up on the flats, Mr. Cragg made facetious recognition of his title-by-grace when he presented His Honor with the key of the city, a gilded yard-long too tied with gay ribbons. With this was presented a phial of gold panned from the Leech River, a gift for Miss Mackenzie.

Among the interesting souvenirs shown were two rings made from Leechtown gold, one belonging to Mrs. Faucault, the first nugget discovered by Lieutenant Leech, the other belonging to Benjamin Cross, an employee of the B.C. Electric who panned the gold at Baron Bar on the Sooke twenty-five years ago. Mr. Hsieh also read a little poem written by Mr. Donald Fraser in honor of the incident.

An al fresco luncheon occupied the hour remaining until the departure of the train.

Among those who attended the unveiling were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn, Mrs. S. F. Tolmie and Miss E. Tolmie, Mr. John Hsieh (Provincial archivist), Mr. Beaumont Boggs (president of the B.C. Historical Society), Mrs. Faucault and son, Mr. John Cragg, Miss Hsieh, Miss A. ZONING BOARD ASKS RULING ON ITS POWER

Practically Without Power to Function if Opinion of City's Counsel Is Correct One, They Say

SOLICITORS TO MAKE REPORT

The zoning board practically told the City Council last night that it need no longer function if the last ruling given in respect to the powers of the board was final. In a letter to the council the board asked that its powers be properly defined.

The board had received two letters from the city's counsel. One to the effect that Mr. A. Scott was right in appealing to the zoning board against the zoning by-law in connection with the erection of a stable on Heywood Avenue. The second letter received was contradictory, the board declared. It said that the board had no jurisdiction over the matter.

The members of the board wanted to know definitely what its powers were, because if it had no jurisdiction over such matters as the Scott appeal, then "the zoning board is almost without function."

MONTREAL PLANE SERVICE IS GIVEN ROUSING START

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—With the greatest aeronautical display ever witnessed in Canada, in which over fifty airplanes of all makes from various parts of the Dominion and the United States participated, the international air express and passenger service between Montreal and New York was inaugurated, and the daily mail service between Montreal and Toronto was initiated today.

The ceremonies took place at the St. Hubert Airport, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, and the inauguration address was delivered by Victor Gaudet, K.C., postmaster of Montreal.

Norah Will Leave Clyde for Coast End of November

The Princess Norah is expected to leave the Clyde for this coast about the end of next month, and should arrive here about Christmas, it was stated by Captain C. D. Neroulet, manager of the B.C. Coast Service, yesterday, in commenting on the date of delivery next month.

The vessel should be ready to leave the Gowan yard of the Fairchild Shipbuilding & Engineering Company about November 29. On arrival the vessel will be immediately placed in service on the West Coast, the Princess Maquina being withdrawn. The change should take place early in January.

Loyal Knights See Laboratory At High School

The weekly dinner of the Loyal Knights of the Round Table was held last evening in the private dining-room of the Empress Hotel and was presided over by Sir Knight F. E. Winslow, president of the organization.

Sir Knight E. D. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Finance, brought as guest for the evening Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, who was given an enthusiastic welcome by those present.

Following routine business the members adjourned to the Victoria High School, where they listened to a very interesting lecture by Sir Knight Professor P. H. Elliott, principal of the Victoria College, on "Radiant Energy." He illustrated his discourse by demonstrating with the High School laboratory apparatus, which was kindly loaned for the occasion.

NOVA SCOTIA'S ELECTION

The closeness of the verdict in the provincial election in Nova Scotia was not anticipated in any quarter. The angle at which the electorate seems to have viewed the situation was that it is not a good thing for any Government to have an overwhelming majority. This undoubtedly accounted for a change in sentiment. It may be considered a matter of justice, however, that the Government should have been sustained, even by a slim majority. It deserves well at the hands of the electors because it has practically carried out in its entirety the programme on which it was given such an emphatic mandate in 1925. It has straightened out the finances of the province and been successful in doing what lay within the provincial scope to improve economic conditions. The past three years in Nova Scotia have been as profitable, if not more so, than any similar period of time in the province's history. With this in view it is a matter of gratification that the Government of Mr. Rhodes has been sustained in power. He has set his hands to creating an era of prosperity and it is fortunate that, in the light of what has already been accomplished, there will be no change in the direction of affairs in the Maritime Province.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

The Provincial Government's attitude in regard to the elimination, so far as possible, of interference with the administration of liquor control may be misinterpreted in some quarters. The Government cannot absolve itself from responsibility inasmuch as it is Government Control of the sale of liquor that prevails in this province. That is what the people voted in effect; that is what the Legislature passed an Act to provide. The Government is responsible and must remain so, unless and until the present legislation is entirely changed. Probably what the Attorney-General means is simply that it is his intention not to interfere with certain details of administration which are routine matters in the working of the legislation. Regarding policies, however, and particularly in relation to the purchasing of liquor supplies and the commissions paid thereon, there must be, if liquor control is to be divorced from suspicion, a far more rigid supervision than there has ever been in the past.

By now the Government must have in its possession full facts relating to certain happenings in connection with liquor administration under its predecessor in office. It knows how far, if at all, any of the present employees of the Liquor Board have been working in collaboration with what became known as the "Vancouver ring." It knows who derived benefits through sales of liquor to the Liquor Control Board, benefits over and above the legitimate commission paid to agents of the distilleries. The knowledge which must have come into its possession will presumably decide the Government on a course of action to pursue. If there is to be no political interference with the administration of the Liquor Control Board there must be, first, a standard of conduct decreed which will prevent happenings of the past. The necessity for this standard of conduct arises because of the attitude of certain supporters of the late Government and the easy virtue of that administration in dovetailing its actions with their wishes. Unquestionably the nature of the investigation which the present Government is carrying out to ascertain methods affecting liquor control has disclosed certain objectionable happenings. The possibility of such occurring again should be wholly precluded.

Liquor control is a department of Government in which something in the nature of a house cleaning is needed. The statements of Conservative speakers in the Legislature and on platforms, statements which have never been proven untrue, point to the necessity for reform. Part of that reform is indicated by the announcement of the Attorney-General that there will be as little governmental interference as possible in the future in the carrying out of the details of control. In order to insure that the control will no longer be susceptible to any outside interference, it is useful, as well, for the Government to take such steps as will clearly indicate the policy that must be pursued. These steps should involve a full accounting to the Government and to the people of all purchases made on behalf of the Liquor Control Board, with the commissions paid, and to whom paid. In the course of the last eleven years no department of Government has come under such a barrage of political criticism as liquor administration, and one point of special reprehension is the employment of the genus known as "stool pigeons." That indicates that the Government is held responsible for Government Control and that it should be its duty to be able to give a full and frank accounting to the people of its stewardship.

GERMAN COMPETITION

Some reasons why Germany is underselling so many other countries in the world markets and constitute an explanation why that country has made such a remarkable post-war recovery. Outside Germany itself probably the greatest authority on her economics is Sir Philip Dawson. He has been commenting on the fact that Germany is underselling Great Britain, not only in neutral markets but also in British markets, for certain classes of goods are one-half, one-third, one-fourth and even less of the British cost. Sir Philip points out that the German import licence (customs duty) protects her own home market from foreign competition; the low wage and long hours, are also determining factors. Here is what he says: "An average of 56 hours a day is being worked in certain localities and industries. A spell of 68 is not exceptional.

Thirty-five shillings a week is an accepted wage, two pounds is considered high."

Owing to the lack of protection in Britain, except such as prevails under the Safeguarding of Industries Act, British manufacturers have a hard, in some cases an impossible, task in competing with German manufacturers. The handicaps are perhaps as great in Canada, for while this country has a measure of protection Canadian wages average about double those paid in Britain. In Germany in mining the skilled workman is paid $13.50 per week; the unskilled, $9.51. In metals the skilled is paid $12.03, the unskilled $8.36. In chemicals the rates are $11.03, $9.33; in building, $14.78, $12.03; in wood working, $12.76, $11.01; in paper manufactures, $8.81, $7.31; in brewing, $13.76, $12.17; in baking and confectionery, $10.89, $9.41; in printing, $12.59, $10.96; in cardboard box making, $10.04, $8.59; in Federal railways, $11.97, $9.41. In Canada the skilled worker's average rate is $39.17 per week and the unskilled, $28.20, and in the case of miners the average skilled rate is $42.50, and the unskilled $23.50.

The only way to offset the disadvantage in trade which Canada suffers from in competition with Germany is through the placing of customs duties levied on imported goods in such a schedule that a fair level in the realm of competition will be established as between Canadian workmen and German workmen. This applies to other countries as well where lower wage scales prevail and where longer hours are worked. Canada, or at least Canada in parts, has subscribed to the doctrine of the eight-hour day. Germany has not, and seemingly has no intention of doing so. Canada's future fiscal policy is foreshadowed by the effects of German competition. Mr. R. B. Bennett, the Conservative leader, is performing a service to his country by pointing out the urgent need of protecting Canadian workmen against the lower wages and living conditions of European countries, such as Czechoslovakia, Germany and Italy.

The Leeds Mercury has a caustic but common sense answer to political proposals made by a member of the Labor Party in view of the coming election in Britain. Mr. Ben Turner, chairman of the Trades and Labor Congress, wants shorter hours in the mines and more money for the miners. He wants, as well, a grandiose land colony system to settle workers on the land, not in the Overseas Dominions but in Britain itself. The Leeds Mercury says that on the basis of these proposals the remedy for dear coal is to make it dearer still. "This is like proposing blood-letting as a cure for anaemia." The land colony system would cost millions of pounds and The Mercury asks what would be the result? "When our own farmers, who know their work from A to Z, can hardly make both ends meet, and when, even in rich Holderness, agriculture is so depressed that there you can have farm tenancies for nothing, is it likely that our unemployed, going from the mines and cotton and woolen mills, will make any better success of the job?"

As an idealist Lord Robert Cecil was an excellent British representative on the League of Nations. As a man who tempers his idealism with common sense, his successor, Lord Cushendun, is perhaps more typical of the British people. Of Lord Cushendun it has been said that he "lacks the fanaticism which blurs reality." It is well for the sake of Britain that his sound common sense, already exercised so forcibly, will constantly be at war with the frenzy for internationalism which seems to possess some of the representatives on the League. Lord Cushendun is not willing to sacrifice the British people or impair their means of self-reliance. If the goal of the League is to be attained while he is Britain's representative it will be reached by the road of common sense and on the way there will be no impairment of the prestige of Britain at the bidding of doctrinaires.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

There cannot be a great many of the old boys left. Such was the substance of the thought that entered our mind after reading news of the death of Mr. John R. Robinson, for forty-five years connected with The Toronto Telegram and for thirty-nine years editor-in-chief of the paper. Mr. Robinson was nineteen years of age when we first met him in the office of The Toronto Globe, beginning what his brother newspaper men have described as a "colorful" journalistic career.

There was nothing specially "colorful" in young Robinson's dress, deportment or style as a writer at that time. One or two of his youthful colleagues were vastly more "colorful" in their sartorial style. One of them wore a velvet coat and a wide-flowing tie, probably to emphasize the distinction between a real artist in his profession and the common run of reporters. The printers jeered at him every time he entered the composing room with a batch of copy. The autocratic old foreman of the mechanical department, who despised all manifestations of "side," decided that the young fog must be "taken down a peg." So one afternoon when the dandy arrived at the foreman's desk with a "story" which happened to be a few minutes too late for publication in the next edition, the arbitrary old man seized the copy and tore it in pieces before the eyes of the dumfounded reporter.

The humiliated young man must have taken the matter as a reflection upon his personal appearance rather than upon his professional qualifications, for he appeared no more dressed in his "glad rags." Just an ordinary reporter. John R. Robinson was not a bit like his senior colleague. When he first reported for duty in The Globe office he looked like an ordinary young Canadian from the country. He was colorful neither in appearance nor action; but he was forceful and ambitious.

When he resigned from the staff of The Globe and joined that of The Telegram most of the boys thought he had sacrificed his ambition upon a whim. Toronto was not a very big town then compared with what it is today. The Telegram was a small newspaper compared with its big morning contemporaries; and it was despised by all the great journalists of the city. Nobody believed that there was a future in store for the paper or for anybody connected with it. John R. Robinson either knew better or he guessed better. John R. Robinson, proprietor of The Telegram, a big and dour Scot, whose first newspaper venture had proved a failure, was determined that his second enterprise should be a success. After giving John R. Robinson a trial as a reporter, he concluded that the young man was possessed of journalistic ability, and made him his editor-in-chief. His judgment was vindicated by results. The Telegram became a very successful newspaper and a highly valuable property. Its proprietor was one of the richest men in Canada when he died and bequeathed the custody of the paper and a large sum of money to his trusted editor.

Now the editor has gone the way which even all editors must go, and we suppose the astute newspaper men of the present day will be discussing a subject which engaged the attention of their predecessors of another day. That is the phenomenal success of The Toronto Telegram. The old boys used to affirm that The Telegram was not a newspaper. They declared that it was not sold for the news it published, that its circulation and success were due to the advertisements printed in its classified columns.

But we fear the old chaps were prejudiced. The Telegram expressed views upon all subjects affecting the future of Canada and the prospects of Toronto. The views expressed were the views of the editor, and they were the forceful views of a "colorful" person who always had a deep and abiding faith in the future of Canada and was firm in his conviction that that future could be most surely attained as a Dominion of the British Empire. Occasionally it was somewhat difficult to believe that some of Mr. Robinson's contemporaries were not inclined to waver in their allegiance; but there never was any doubt about his position.

If Mr. Robinson's personality was "colorful," particularly in his later days, his journalistic style became unique after he joined the staff of The Telegram. It was not the polished and flowing style taught by Dr. Goldwin Smith to many Eastern journalists and had been vividly exemplified in the essays of the late Sir John Willison. Mr. Robinson's sentences were short and explosive. One critic has compared them to the barking and snapping of a dog. But the "bark" was worse than the bite. Mr. Robinson was known in every editorial office in Canada as "Black Jack." But there was nothing black in his heart or soul. In the course of his professional career he made many friends, and never forgot one of them. Nothing seemed to please him more than an opportunity to grasp old-time colloquies by the hand and to talk about the old days and the old faces of which nothing remain but shadows. Today he too is in the shadow land.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMER'S HOME

MR. ANGUS MCKINNON SUFFERS HEAVY LOSS AT DUNCAN

High Wind Endangers Other Buildings—Children Playing With Matches Blamed

DUNCAN, Oct. 1.—Children playing with matches are said to have caused a fire here yesterday, which destroyed the home and barn of Mr. Angus McKinnon, a dairy farmer, owning one of the largest milk routes in Duncan. The buildings were situated just within the northern boundary of the city.

The fire originated in the barn and spread immediately to the house. A small amount of furniture was saved, but all the winter's supply of feed for stock was consumed by the flames.

A high wind was blowing from the west, and burning shingles were carried a distance of more than a quarter of a mile and set fire to the roof of some Chinese buildings on the east side of the railway. This extinguished with difficulty. Had the wind been blowing towards the city a disastrous fire would undoubtedly have resulted.

No insurance was carried by Mr. McKinnon on his buildings or their contents, and his loss will be a heavy one.

COURTENAY MAY JOIN EGG POOL

Poultrymen of District Hear Address of Mr. W. A. Landreth Explaining Contract

COURTENAY, Oct. 1.—Very keen was the representative meeting of the poultrymen of the district held in the Agricultural Hall on Friday night. Some fifty men listened attentively to Mr. W. A. Landreth, of the poultry pool fame, who in a clear address outlined the situation and explained the proposed contract clause by clause. He was asked several questions and gave lucid answers. Mr. G. Wallace, from Delta Manor, near Ladner, also addressed the meeting and explained how the systems of both Washington and the Canadian Pacific egg pools had been examined, and that of the latter adopted by the egg producers in this district. Meetings had been held in Victoria, Duncan and Parksville, where most of the egg men had signed the contract. A total of twelve hundred signatures was necessary in order to form the British Columbia Pool, and three hundred had been obtained in the first week. Prospects for obtaining the necessary number were excellent. A number of the local men signed the agreement while at the meeting, and it is probable that the necessary twenty-five contracts will be completed here, which will make it possible to form a local branch of the pool. Mr. Norman Pritchard acted as chairman of the meeting.

Did all that he could do
To lessen others' weariness,
Make others' dreams come true.
To lift the vexing load of care
From any brother man,
To smooth the way where all must pass
In earth's great caravan.
If we would all the journey through,
With ease and faith and cheer,
Then we might shape the world anew.
More like our hearts' desire!
Perhaps it may work out this way
In some far distant time
When all the discords of our life
To sudden sweetness chime;
When every vista ends in light,
As centuries elapse,
The world may all grow wholly right,
Life wholly fair, perhaps!

Prairie Fire Burns Area of 100,000 Acres

CALGARY, Oct. 1.—A disastrous prairie fire occurred in the Alder district Saturday afternoon, when an area estimated at more than 100,000 acres was burned over. Some buildings and stock were destroyed, while the town of Alder and district fought fire all Saturday afternoon and night, east, west and south of town. The residents were assisted by Canadian Pacific Railway men from Brooks and Medicine Hat, who gave valuable assistance southwest of town. The exact damage from the fire is not yet known. The Nine Bar Ranch was one of the heaviest losers, but saved its buildings. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Fire at Medicine Hat

CALGARY, Oct. 1.—Occupied by the Codville Company, wholesalers, a warehouse at Medicine Hat was totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The fire raged for seven hours, fanned by a strong wind.

Damage to the amount of $155,000 was done, of which $125,000 was the estimated loss of stock. The building is owned by Mr. W. B. Marshall, of Medicine Hat, who is at present in Victoria, B.C.

CIVIC ENTERPRISE

Sir—At the annual prize distribution and banquet of the Victoria Horticultural Society, which was held in the Crystal Garden banquet hall on Friday last, it was announced by the new president, Mr. Fred Landsberg, that, at the regular meeting of the society, to be held on Tuesday, October 2, at 8 p.m., in the City Hall, he would outline a new and daring programme for the coming year.

I would, therefore, urge upon everyone who has the interests of this city at heart, to be present at this meeting and hear for themselves what is to be done.

When an important organization like the Victoria Horticultural Society opens its doors to the general public, Victorians should see to it that the invitation is accepted. Quite possibly your readers recognize the importance and the power of this organization in things pertaining to the outward form and semblance of our civic structure. It goes without saying then, that the public should have a say in its deliberations. This can be done by joining in its membership.

The president also announced that the Hon. S. F. Toulme would address the meeting on Tuesday evening.

SHOOTING "ACCIDENTS"

Sir—It is regrettable that a shooting season cannot pass without some promising young life being sacrificed owing to a gun "accident." Those so-called "accidents" are altogether too lightly passed over and generally soon forgotten, excepting by the families of those immediately concerned, until the next one happens.

Few experienced hunters look upon such occurrences as accidents, but rather as the result of carelessness or ignorance of one of the primary rules of hunting—safety first.

There is absolutely no excuse for a hunter climbing over fences and rocks, or pushing through thick undergrowth carrying a cocked gun or rifle. Under such conditions a person is not in a position to take a shot even should one present itself, and in any case, if he cannot put the hammer in the firing position while bringing his piece to the shoulder, he had better stay out of the hills and woods until he learns how to do so.

Further legislation would appear to be useless, as evidently no jury can be found to convict anyone committing an "accident" such as shooting at a noise or a moving bush and hitting a man. The application of common sense would be much more effective.

I have hunted with firearms for fifty years and never on any occasion have had a weapon discharge accidentally.

Safety first, always, and have no regrets.

WILLIAM ROBERTSON.
Sooke, B.C., September 28, 1928.

FOREST DEVASTATION

Sir—The Government are spending large sums of money in fighting forest fires but are doing little in a practical way to prevent them. They repeatedly tell us how rapidly our forests are disappearing and the crying need for conservation, but seem to be perfectly oblivious of the fact that they alone have the authority to enforce conservation, to regulate the volume of the annual cut and to require the disposal of logging slash in order to prevent the spread of forest fires. Until they do this all this propaganda is insincere and ends in nothing.

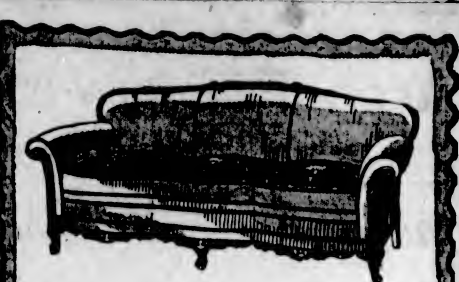

It is true that Eastern Canada has been favored of late with fewer forest fires, but as the Minister of the Interior, Hon. Charles Stewart, says, "Favorable weather was largely responsible for this happy condition." Dry years come in cycles, and a dry season is overdue. When it comes, I venture to say, we shall be exposed to the greatest fire hazard and this or any other country has never known.

We are now cutting in Canada more than five million cords of pulpwood annually, and increasing the amount every year. In doing so this means that we are adding to our accumulation of dry forest fire kindling slash, the tops and branches of one hundred and fifty million trees per year. This is from the pulpwood cut alone, which constitutes only about one-quarter of our total annual cut of timber. In addition to this vast amount of logging slash there must be added the millions of trees that are continually being blown down to become tinder to endanger our forest area from one end of Canada to the other.

Turned loose among all this slash are the vast hordes of pulpwood cutters, lumbermen, prospectors, miners, settlers, fishermen, hunters and tourists with their cigarettes and camp fires, not to speak of the always present menace of coal-burning locomotives and lightning. Together these constitute a combination of forest fire hazards heretofore unapproached in the world's history. Even during the past summer a continuation of dry weather for two or three days longer at the critical time and with such abnormal temperature as is common during such seasons in the North might well have wiped out the entire North West Country. Even as it was the forest authorities spent many sleepless nights over the situation.

When forest fires break out in forty or fifty different places at the same time, which is quite common in dry seasons (one coal-burning locomotive has been known to have started as many as twenty-five fires on a single run) and with a high wind blowing all the airplanes and fire-fighting equipment in the world are of no account, as was illustrated in the Halesbury, Ironquels Falls and Cochrane forest fire tragedies. The accumulated slash is responsible for those tragedies, yet of late years we have made little impression on the Government. No adequate slash disposal has been put into effect. The slash continues to accumulate for another and far greater tragedy, which is inevitable when the next dry season comes.

In the meantime, we are paying a heavy and ever increasing toll through damage and loss of life caused by the other outraged elements—wind and water. Wasteful overcutting forest fire fungi, insects and wind combined are rapidly wiping out our available forest. This enormous overcutting of our forest is draining the country of its most valuable and vitally necessary natural resource, much of which is to be converted into newspaper, a commodity that for the next four or five years at least is bound to be manufactured without any profit to the mills owing to the large overproduction. This overproduction is continually being added to through the erection of more and still more new mills. Consequently we are ruthlessly wasting our forest heritage that is rapidly reaching the stage of exhaustion, and at the same time forcing our pulp and paper industry to the wall. In other words, we are sacrificing the last of our forests and bankrupting a great industry at the same time.

Can there be anything more imbecile than this?

Mr. Claude Harrison Vigorously Assails Two Stool Pigeons

Crown Prosecutor Withdraws Five Charges in Provincial Court in Roadhouse Raids Because of Dishonorable Actions of Special Police Operatives—Evidence Would Be "Tainted"

Edwards and Griffiths Not Fit to Be Police Officers, He Declares

AFTER vigorously flaying the actions of police operatives, Edwards and Griffiths, Crown Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison withdrew five charges preferred against alleged bootleggers, roadhouse owners and taxi men, on the ground that they were based on dishonorable stool pigeons' evidence. Mr. Harrison said that after closely examining Edwards and Griffiths and hearing their story, he was convinced that the evidence the two men would give would be tainted, and he declined to produce the stool pigeons in court.

The charges withdrawn by the Crown Prosecutor were: Arthur W. Curtis, Mill Bay, accused of selling liquor; Charles Cronk, Victoria, accused of selling liquor; Pearl Simmons, Monte Carlo Inn, Colwood, accused of keeping liquor for sale; Leighton Miles, Victoria, accused of keeping liquor for sale; R. W. Payne, Mill Bay, accused of selling liquor.

The prosecutor told the court that while he withdrew the charge against Mrs. Simpson, he would lay another charge against her probably on Monday next.

THREE CONVICTIONS

Convictions recorded in the provincial court yesterday in connection with the raids conducted last Thursday night along the Island Highway by the Provincial Police were as follows:

Roy Morrison, charged with selling liquor, fined $300 or three months' imprisonment with hard labor.

Roy Morrison, also charged with having unsealed liquor in his possession, fined $75, or thirty days in jail with hard labor.

Leighton Miles, charged with having unsealed liquor in his possession, fined $100 or one month in jail with hard labor.

The case of Elizabeth Alexander, colored, of the Chanticleer Inn, Island Highway, charged with selling liquor for sale, will come up for hearing tomorrow. It was intimated that withdrawal of this charge might also be asked.

In a statement to the court, Crown Prosecutor Harrison said that the two men, Edwards and Griffiths, came from Vancouver as special agents of police. He had carefully examined them and felt their evidence was not such as he should present. It was evidence that would be dishonorable to the court.

Mr. Harrison said he had discovered that these men had come down the Island in an automobile, and near Hillbank had met a woman who had missed the stage and driven her to Victoria. Subsequently they became intimate, and she had got in touch with other respectable women in this city.

"LED ASTRAY"

"I ascertained their statement that these women had never before been to these resorts was true," said Mr. Harrison, "but these men took these women out with them to these places."

"In other words these respectable persons were led astray, were caused to break the laws of this province by these men. They are not fit to be police officers."

"This is a situation which I have never had to face before, and I am going to face it with hesitation," Prosecutor Harrison declared, with emphasis.

The prosecutor told of having examined the notebooks of the stool pigeons. He had discovered certain places where writing had been rubbed out and written over. The man had said it was copied from another book. When asked to produce the other book he could not do so, but said he had intended to copy it out later in another book.

"The evidence he would present would not be honorable," Mr. Harrison contended, "and I will not present these men to this court, although Your Honor has the right to call them."

Mr. Harrison declared that Hon. Mr. Pooley, Attorney-General, had given him sanction to use his own judgment in the matter.

HONOR IS AT STAKE

"I consider the honor of the Attorney-General's Department at stake. These men are sworn in as special officers. They are not regular men," he continued.

"They are what are commonly called 'stool pigeons.' His Honor suggested."

Mr. Harrison—I have no objection to the term.

Crown counsel did not think it would be right to drag into court, respectable women who had accompanied the stool pigeons on their visits to roadhouses.

Magistrate George Jay said it was the duty of the Crown prosecutor to consider carefully the evidence to be submitted by the Crown, and if such evidence was not reliable, to act accordingly. He believed Mr. Harrison was properly performing his duty in acquiescing the court of the circumstances as he had done.

Mr. Harrison said if he learned of friend, Mr. Stuart Henderson, wished to have the two special operatives, "Edwards" and "Griffiths,"

Mr. Harrison declared that Hon. Mr. Pooley, Attorney-General, had given him sanction to use his own judgment in the matter.

"This is a situation which I have never had to face before, and I am going to face it with hesitation," Prosecutor Harrison declared, with emphasis.

Injuries Are Fatal to Boy In Accident

JOHN Playfoot, aged eight years, of 1517 North Park Street, died in the St. Joseph's Hospital at 7:30 o'clock this morning from injuries received in a motor accident last Saturday morning. The boy fell in front of a car and sustained severe injuries to his back and chest, besides internal injuries. The inquest will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the B.C. Funeral Parlors. The driver of the car that ran over the boy was Mr. W. J. McArthur, of Elford Street. The funeral will take place following the arrival of the boy's mother and father from Regina. Besides his father, he is survived by one brother, and his grandmother, Mrs. E. Daniels, with whom he was living at the time of the accident.

DR. HOLDEN'S BODY IS FOUND

Fisherman Finds Body Floating in Port Angeles Harbor—Was Victim of Airplane Disaster

Frank Fennell, Port Angeles fisherman, found the body of the late Dr. Donald B. Holden floating in the waters of Port Angeles harbor yesterday morning. Dr. Holden was a passenger on board the ill-fated B.C. Airways, Limited, monoplane that crashed in the water somewhere between Dungeness Light and Port Angeles on August 26.

Identification of the body was made by the finding of a medical notebook which bore the name of Dr. Holden and contained certain professional appointments. The doctor's name was also found on a tailor's label.

Mr. Alex. Holden and Mr. Clement Holden, stepsons of Dr. Holden, immediately notified. They have left for Port Angeles to officially identify the body.

Rally Day Services

GIBBINS ROAD, Oct. 1.—Gibbins Road Sunday School held a special rally day service at Vimy Hall on Sunday afternoon. There was a good attendance, over forty adults and children being present. The superintendent, Mrs. T. C. Robinson, was in charge of the service. The programme used throughout Canada for rally day was followed. Mr. J. N. O'Neill was listened to with interest when he spoke on "War and Peace." The programme included a reading, "Helping Each Other," by Mrs. John Haslam; quartette, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," Alice Clark, Agnes Hansen, Hope Robson; recitations, "Robinson Crusoe" and "Pleasant Valley," by Mrs. W. J. Blair, Rosa and Clara Hansen, and George Parlee. The golden texts for the quarter just closed repeated by Clara Hansen. The closing exercises were in charge of Mr. H. Clark.

DUNCAN, Oct. 1.—An interesting service was held at the United Church on Sunday morning, when the Sunday school observed their annual Rally Day. Scholars, parents and friends were present in large numbers. Mr. R. A. Thorpe, Sunday school superintendent, had in charge of the service. Special music included a duet, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Misses Etta and Edith Hood, and chorus by the girls' choir, "Onward, Ever Onward." Others taking part were Carrie Olsen, Patricia O'Neill, Winston Burkholder, Bertram Thorpe and Mabel Burkholder. In his address, Rev. W. F. Burns spoke on "Peace," which was the theme of the whole programme. The Sunday school now has eleven teachers and a good attendance of scholars. Any children of Duncan not attending Sunday school will receive a hearty welcome at the United Church School, which meets on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Diplomas for regular attendance were presented to Gwen Mabel and Dorothy Owen, Winston Burkholder, Bertram Thorpe, Leonard and Eileen Thorpe, Carrie Olsen, Christine McKenzie, Hazel Mains, Florence Diron, Olive Mains, Edith Diron, Erna Banga, Ernest, William and Maurice Flett and Ephraim Burkholder.

RADIO CAR TO CLEAR THE AIR

Special Equipment of Government Department to Work on Vancouver Island

INQUIRIES ARE WELCOMED

Every province in Canada, including British Columbia, is now equipped with an "interference car," which is provided by the Radio Branch of the Department of Mines and Fisheries, and which, equipped with very sensitive receivers, patrols the various districts where inductive interference to reception is experienced. The British Columbia car is stationed at Vancouver, which city has more trouble from interference than is experienced in Victoria, and has just completed an inland tour. The car will be on the Island the beginning of this month, commencing a tour from Comox, Courtenay, and Cumberland down through all the towns of the Island Highway to complete in Victoria a journey of inspection which will have extended for a period of about ten days, according to the amount of "interference" to be dealt with.

VISITS MANY POINTS

During the mainland tour just completed all the important towns were visited, and good results in most instances achieved in securing improved reception. In many cases where the trouble from interference was located and diagnosed, it was found possible to deal with the matter by prescribing suitable apparatus, known as "surge traps," which were installed in the offending generators. A principal source of interference in Interior towns was from local telephone and telegraph systems, which set up small surges in the wires spreading over the district, which were conveyed in some instances over a great many miles. With the co-operation of the companies concerned, effective measures have, in most instances, been taken to suppress the trouble and clear the air for radio reception.

More insidious, however, but a principal cause of interference, are power lines and distribution systems which, developing a very small leak or short circuit which is not perceptible or a detriment to the efficient working of the electric system, cause very considerable trouble to reception. Vancouver particularly suffers in this respect, and the British Columbia "interference car" is stationed at this city for this reason.

WELCOMES INQUIRIES

The car, on its temporary stay on the Island, will endeavor to clear up radio troubles for local listeners, not only those resident in the cities and towns, but in the country as well. Well known to all, the trouble from causes outside their own set, should inform Mr. E. J. Haughton, Superintendent of Canadian Government Radioteletographs, Pacific Coast, who will arrange at once for efforts to be made to clear reception.

Norfolk Island is patrolled by a local investigator who has had the satisfaction of ridding Victoria, to a very great extent, of radio trouble. But there are a number of cases outstanding which can only be located with the help of the radio car, which will be here during the early part of the month.

Minister Says Private Negotiations Were Best

Hon. W. C. Shelly Explains Recent Debenture Sale of Province, Answering Ex-Premier J. D. MacLean's Criticism

"I am surprised at the inaccuracies contained in the statement attributed to the former Premier, Dr. J. D. MacLean," said Hon. W. C. Shelly, Minister of Finance, when his attention was called to the criticism offered by the former to the recent debenture sale made by the present Government.

"The only 'defensible and unjustifiable' position is that taken by Dr. MacLean because while he was warned of the changing condition of the money market he declined to make any attempt to co-operate with Hon. Dr. Tolmie before prices reached such a low yield," said Mr. Shelly.

SAYS TWO ERRORS
"Dr. MacLean is wrong on two fundamental counts in this connection: first because the price of 4.42 was obtained by his Government by private sale and not by open tender; and second because the last transaction of the late Government was sale at 5 per cent basis, and not at 4.42, as stated by Dr. MacLean."

"And further," added Mr. Shelly, "only $1,000,000 of debentures were sold at 4.42 basis."

"A review of the money market since January last, during which the province has gone to the market, affords opportunity of following the trend of prices obtained for provincial securities. On January 25, $4,000,000 six months treasury bills were sold to the Bank of Commerce and associates at 4.36 per cent by private sale. These were renewed on July 17 for three months at 6 per cent basis, in New York, as explained in the statement I made."

"This portion of the statement apparently was deliberately omitted in the report setting out Dr. MacLean's criticism."

"At the time of this latter sale the serious condition of the future money market was made clear to the late Government in a communication from our financial advisers that in view of the large programme of refunding to be done in their opinion private negotiations would meet with more success. The sale recently made at 4.92 basis was made to meet the maturing of the $4,000,000 debentures sold July 17 at 5 per cent basis."

"As a result of procrastination the Province has had to pay more for its money, amounting in all to $469,800."

"If, however, you compare the prices at the time this province sold in the money market with the prices of other provinces and then make similar comparison with respect to recent sales you will find that the recent transaction was correspondingly successful."

Mr. George Robey and Company Conclude Royal Victoria Audience in Fine Comedy

Victoria's first-nighters (and they were rather more numerous than usual) had their theatre experience enriched last evening by seeing Mr. George Robey, the most famous of England's living red-nosed comedians, at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

Judging by the clamorous reception which he was given, he has been thoroughly established, or re-established, himself in the affections of his public here. Just as obviously Miss Clark Blanche, his leading lady, and his cleverly-selected company shared in the acclaim. He himself insisted that they deserved it, in the comic little monologue of thanks which he gave at the end of the performance.

POWER RATE HANDICAPS INDUSTRIES

Industrial Committee Asks Reports on City's Ability to Supply Power—Important Industry Lost

RATE IS HIGHER THAN VANCOUVER

Faced with the handicap of industries to establish plants here with the electric power rate higher than it is in Vancouver, the industrial committee of the City Council recommended at last night's meeting that the city solicitor and city engineer be asked to bring in a report on the question of the supply of electric light and power and what authority the city has to develop its own system of electrical energy.

Acting Mayor P. R. Brown pointed out after the committee's report had been presented that the grain elevator at the Ogden Point docks would have to pay a rate for electric power 40 per cent higher than the Vancouver rate, and that the Vancouver power rate was a third less than that of Victoria.

"We have lost an industry to this city representing an investment of $750,000, simply because the power rates were considered too high," Alderman Brown stated.

"This is a pulp mill, which would have employed from the very outset between seventy-five and one hundred men."

The industrial committee's recommendation, which was adopted by the Council, reads as follows:

"Your committee begs to call the attention of the City Council to the serious situation which has developed regarding the supply of electric power for industrial purposes in the city of Victoria and surrounding district. Your committee has been in negotiation with several companies regarding establishment of plants in the city and such concerns have been satisfied with rates we have been able to call to their attention and obtain general local conditions, but owing to the rates quoted for the supply of electric power being so much higher than the rates in Vancouver, any other advantages were considerably discounted and our negotiations have therefore, that the city solicitor and city engineer be asked to bring in a report on the whole question of the supply of electric light and power and what authority the city has to develop its own system of electrical energy."

Alderman Litchfield said that he had always received the co-operation of the B.C.E.R. Company in all matters, but if the B.C.E.R. could reach the limits of its power supply, then the city must look to the future in order to take care of industrial expansion.

City & District

Trial Dates Set—His Honor Judge P. S. Lammiman yesterday fixed dates for the hearing of trials during the month of October in the County Court here.

Reverted Land—A reverted lot, situated on Michigan Street, was sold to Mr. John Nute, of 311 St. Lawrence Street, for $400 by the City Council at last night's meeting.

Leaves for East—Hon. W. D. Ross, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, who has been a visitor at Government House, left last evening for Toronto.

Conducting Examinations—Rev. Dr. Campbell is this week conducting examinations for clerk accountants in the office of the chief accountant, Department of National Defence, Ottawa.

Chambers Session—Mr. Justice Morrison heard a brief list of chambers applications in the Supreme Court here yesterday, and will be the trial judge for that court the present month.

Liberals to Meet—The Esquimalt Liberal Association will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at their city headquarters on Broughton Street. The speakers for the evening will be F. P. Moody and C. H. O'Halloran.

Public Market—The September receipts at the Victoria Public Market were $739, as compared with $591 for the month of September, 1927. The receipts from outside rentals were $96.

Water Supply—The water committee of the City Council and Sanich Council held a joint conference yesterday afternoon to discuss matters pertaining to the water supply of Saanich, particularly with reference to the water pressure in the high districts of Saanich.

To Speak Tonight—This evening Mr. P. Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, will address the Fairfield Men's Club on "The Highways of British Columbia." The address will be given in the Fairfield United Church, which is the headquarters of the club.

New Meters—The city will spend $2,000 on the replacement of water meters in the Goldstream waterworks system. Alderman Woodward pointed out that the present meters were antiquated, and it was believed registered 25 per cent below the amount of water consumed.

Fire Limits—Building Inspector Barl recommended to last night's meeting of the council that the 2 fire limits be extended to embrace the east side of Cook Street, the north side of Pandora Avenue and the southern side of Fort Street. The matter was referred to the fire warden for report.

Wins Complimentary Tour—The Jefferson County Queen, Miss Margaret Nesbit, of Chimaquin, who won a prize visit to this city from the Jefferson County Fair, was registered at the Dominion Hotel yesterday, with her sister, Miss Marion Nesbit, of Port Townsend. They enjoyed the visit as far as climatic conditions permitted.

Elevator Insurance—Owing to the fact that there are 139 applications for fire insurance on the grain elevator at the Ogden Point docks and the Panama Pacific Grain Terminal, Ltd., point out that it is practically impossible to divide this business between the 139 companies, the city council has referred the whole matter to the industrial committee for a recommendation as to what shall be done.

Tax Sale—When the tax sale property list was completed on Saturday there were 286 pieces of property scheduled to come up for sale yesterday morning, when City Treasurer Smith opened the annual tax sale. During Saturday, however, over 30 per cent of the property was redeemed, while yesterday people were still coming in to redeem their land. Two sales were made yesterday morning before the tax sale adjourned until this morning.

Court of Appeal—The British Columbia Court of Appeal will open its Fall sitting this morning in Vancouver when judgments will be handed down in cases heard here in June on which decisions were reserved. The Court of Appeal list for the Fall session includes thirty-nine cases. The Vancouver Criminal Assizes also commence today in the Terminal City, there being twenty cases, including one murder and five manslaughter charges on the list. Mr. Justice Murphy will be the presiding judge.

Enforce Law—The Police Commission will be asked to see that the law prohibiting the parking of automobiles on the streets between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. be enforced. The automatic street sweeper has been unable to do its work efficiently, the city engineer reported to the Council last night.

A report submitted to the Council of a tally kept on one night's operations showed that there were 109 cars parked on the street between those hours.

September's Weather—The drought last month showed in the record for September rainfall, only 45 of an inch, 1.18 below the record. For the nine months which have elapsed, there has been only 11.78 inches of rain, 3.52 inches below the average of the period. Total sunshine was 225 hours, forty-eight minutes, twelve hours above the September average. Readings of the thermometer fluctuated between 46 degrees on September 20 to 82 degrees on September 22. The mean temperature was 67 degrees.

Moth Plane Tested for Transatlantic Flight

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Oct. 1.—Commander H. C. MacDonald, English author, who hopes to fly from Newfoundland to Ireland this month, made a long trial flight in his Moth plane today. The English flyer did not announce when he will attempt to take off for the transatlantic flight, but today he declared everything was satisfactory for the flight.

FARMERS!

Now is your chance to procure seed for successful WINTER OATS without the heavy expense of importing seed from England and losing a year multiplying it.

We Can Supply GARTON'S HARDY PROLIFIC BLACK WINTER OATS and GARTON'S DUN WINTER OATS Grown From GARTON'S PEDIGREED SEED

for two years here on Glamorgan Farm. Planted with (Winter grown) Spring Vetches they make the best silage, green feed or hay crop and a heavy crop of both straw and thin hulled grain when grown alone.

Fall planting of WINTER OATS will eliminate the Spring rush, avoid the effects of Summer drought and give you heavy mature crops from one month to six weeks earlier.

By Dominion Experimental Farm tests, this has been proven to be the most successful seedling time.

We still have a good supply on hand and through an adjustment in our contract can now sell them at $4.00 Per Cwt. F.O.B. Sidney (Previous Shipments Included)

"My boy," remarked the father, "henceforth I am going to treat you with unremitting kindness." "This looks," replied the prodigal, "like a total eclipse of the son!"

Married At Baptist Church

At the First Baptist Church last evening, Rev. James Strachan solemnized the marriage of Grace Dean McLeod, only daughter of Mr. John L. Beckwith and the late Mrs. Beckwith, to Mr. Francis J. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White, of Montreal. The church was effectively decorated with baskets of golden rod and Michaelmas daisies and tall white tapers. The ceremony was performed under a pretty Gothic arch garlanded with flowers. As the bridal party entered the church, Mrs. McCoy Jameson's choir, of which the bride was a member, sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden." Mr. Jesse Longfield was at the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was very lovely in a gown of smoke white georgette with cape gracefully draped and skirt falling softly in correspondingly uneven hemline. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. The bride veil of Brussels net was held in place by a dainty pearl coronet. She carried a shower bouquet of Opuntia roses, lilies of the valley and white heather. Miss Dorothea Hay attended the bride and wore a French frock of peach georgette and lace with large picture hat trimmed with velvet of a deeper tone. She carried a bouquet of bronze tinted roses and maindennhair fern. Little Jean McLeod Beckwith, niece of the bride, made a sweet little flower girl, dressed in pale blue georgette with bandeau of bebe roses on her hair and carrying a dainty basket of beige roses and white sweet peas. Mr. Harold A. Beckwith, brother of the bride, assisted the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Robert S. Yates and Mr. Ira Dilworth. During the signing of the register the choir sang "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Beach Hotel, Oak Bay, where the bride and groom received the congratulations of their many friends, under a beautiful wedding bell. Mrs. H. A. Beckwith and Miss Winifred Beckwith, cousin of the bride, assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. Beckwith wore a gown of cinnamon velvet with hat en suite, and Miss Beckwith was becomingly attired in a frock of reseda green crepe with hat of reseda felt and moire. During the reception, Mrs. R. N. Meeking, Mrs. W. A. Jameson, Miss Thelma Sippel, Mrs. W. E. H. Godson, Dr. H. Johns and Mr. H. A. Beckwith gave vocal selections. Mr. and Mrs. White left on a motor trip on Vancouver Island, after which they will reside in Chicago, where Mr. White is a member of the staff of the Sun Life Assurance Company. Going away the bride wore a smart dress of rose crepe with coat of beige kitten's ear, fox scarf and beige felt hat with small brown hatter's plush and felt feathers.

Centennial Church Is Scene Of Wedding

A pretty wedding took place at Centennial Church at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday evening when Rev. J. P. Westman, united in marriage Florence May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Haines, of Speed Avenue, and Mr. Ernest Harold Massick, second son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Massick, of Washington Avenue. The church had been beautifully decorated by friends of the bride and groom. Mrs. Green presided at the organ. The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her gown of white taffeta, the graceful folds of the skirt being caught at the side with a large taffeta bow. Her embroidered tulle veil was worn with a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and maindennhair fern. The bride's two attendants were Miss Kathleen Moore and Miss Christine Massick, the former in soft mauve taffeta with insets of gold lace. Miss Massick wearing yellow taffeta trimmed with mauve. Each wore a band of rhinestones in her hair and carried a bouquet of mauve and pink asters and maindennhair fern. Little Miss Amy Wakeman was flower girl, dressed in blue silk. She carried a basket of Michaelmas daisies. Master Albert Haines, little brother of the bride, was trainbearer. Mr. George Wragg was best man, and Messrs. Charles Massick and Oscar Graham acted as ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, which had been beautifully decorated. The table, centered with a three-tier wedding cake, was artistically decorated with red and cream rosebuds and colored streamers. Mrs. Haines, mother of the bride, looked smart in a pale rosewood georgette gown with hat to match, and Mrs. Massick wore a becoming gown of rosewood georgette with a close-fitting black hat and fox fur.

The groom's gift to the bride was a triple string of pearls, to the maid of honor and bridesmaids, strings of pearls; to the flower girl a vanity case; to the trainbearer a watch, and to the best man and ushers, cigarette cases. Among the lovely gifts received by the bride and groom was a jardiniere from the staff of Dale's, where the bride was employed, a set of engraved stainless knives and forks from the Victoria Machinery Depot, where the groom was employed, and two beautiful vases from the Young People's Society of the Centennial Church, of which both the bride and groom are popular members. Mr. and Mrs. Massick will reside on Garbally Road.

Social At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, Oct. 1.—A most enjoyable social evening was spent by the members of the congregation of St. John's Church in the Parish Hall recently, the occasion being a farewell to Mr. W. Robinson, who left to take up his studies in the Anglican Theological College in Vancouver. During the evening Mr. W. W. Cullum, on behalf of the congregation, presented the honored guest with a purse of money, accompanied with the best wishes for his success in his new field of labor, as a token of appreciation of the valued assistance he

GATINEAU NOW
CHANGED RIVERENGINEERS RECONSTRUCT 100 MILES OF BIG AND TUR-BULENT STREAMPaigan Plant Opened - Greatest Transmission Line in World
Takes Load to TorontoOTTAWA, Oct. 1.—Power history is being made today with the normal opening of one of the largest hydro-electrical power plants on the North American Continent—the Jatineau (Quebec) station of the Jatineau Power Co., situated on the Jatineau River, thirty-five miles north of Ottawa.The inauguration of the plant marks the completion of one of the most daring conquests man has ever made over the forces of nature.
The Paigan branch is the last of an initial programme of development which changed the entire surface of a river one hundred miles long. Where once stood turbulent falls, swift flowing and dangerous rapids, now stand the huge barrages of man, harnessing the flow of water.A transmission line of 230,000 volts is carrying the load from Jatineau to Toronto over a distance of 226 miles, the length and load making it the greatest transmission line in the world. When the fixed maximum demand of 200,000 horsepower is completed in 1931, the yearly kilowatt hours to be delivered will be approximately 1,190,000,000.DOUKHOBORS ARE OBEYING RULESMinister of Education Finds Accommodation Will Soon Be Ample for All ChildrenThe children in the Doukhobor settlements in the Interior of the province are, with a very few exceptions, all attending the public schools and evidently making satisfactory progress in their studies. Such is the word brought back by Hon. J.
Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, after a tour of the areas occupied by these people. The Minister of Education made a rather careful investigation into the conditions prevailing under the situation with respect to school attendance far from troublesome.The Inspector of schools for the district which embraces these settlements about Brilliant and elsewhere is handling the situation that exists with great discretion, and Mr.
Hinchliffe gives Inspector P. H.
Sheffield every credit for the ability he has shown in the matter.There are two more schools being rected, and when these are up there will be accommodation for all the Doukhobor children in that part of the country. Already there are four schools in operation. Practically all the Community children are attending these schools, and in addition a number of the Independents among these people, who are not in accord with the Community ideas, are also attending.The Minister of Education hopes that the situation may continue without further trouble and advocates in connection with the matter the exercising of patience, and the use of common sense in the endeavor to have these children brought up with a knowledge of things as they exist in this country.These people represent a body of men and women who came to this country some thirty years ago from Russia, where the conditions of life were very different from what exists here. If they can be educated to grasp "the fundamentals of our methods of living and our ideals," in generation or two it will make for removing a sore spot in the body politic," the minister thinks.MINISTER MEETS
DISTRICT TRUSTEESConsolidated High School Issue
Has Arisen in District of NelsonHon. J. Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, has returned to the city after attending the convention of the British Columbia school trustees, following which he made a tour of the Interior of the province, investigating at first hand the situation in an educational way.Among other points visited was Nelson, where the minister had the opportunity of meeting a delegation from the school boards adjacent to West Kootenay, who had matters to take up with him. In no small measure the trouble complained of was that associated with what may be described as the lure of the cities.It was felt that something might be done in the line of education to counteract this influence.
The minister manifested every sympathy with the residents of the district, and promised that he would be only too glad to co-operate with them at all times in matters pertaining to the schools, so that the illa complained of might be counteracted.There was also raised by them the difficulty that the surrounding schools had with respect to giving the pupils high school education without the expense of sending them to Nelson High School, which often proved rather a hardship.A canvass of the situation revealed the fact that if the four schools of the districts were to unite and erect one high school, no pupil would have to go farther than four miles in order to attend it.PREMIER TO SPEAK

lian, on horticulture and its civic importance. The executive of the society has addressed a cordial invitation to be present to all who are interested in horticulture.Dependable Hose

'Never a Pain now'

"I should like to let you know how much I have benefited by the use of Kruschen. For twenty years I was a perfect martyr to neck headache and biliousness, also I suffered agony from pains in my stomach and I could get no relief. Beginning the use of Kruschen I improved steadily and now never have a pain. In fact, I am so well that I can scarcely remember what I suffered. I take Kruschen every morning and give it the entire credit for making me so well, and I just hope other similar sufferers will get the same benefit." J. G.

Health for ALL at Lower Cost

GLORIOUS good health—the greatest blessing known to mankind—is brought within the reach of all by the recent reduction in the prices of "Ovaltine."

Health depends upon nourishment. "Ovaltine" supplies those health-giving food essentials which are often missing from our daily dietary. Then, too, "Ovaltine" supplies concentrated nourishment. One cup of "Ovaltine" supplies more nourishment than 12 cups of beef tea or 3 eggs.

"Ovaltine" is a perfectly balanced food. It contains all the fats, proteins, carbohydrates and mineral salts which are essential to health in scientifically correct proportions. The necessary vitamins are likewise present—also in correct ratio.

This delicious beverage makes every meal complete in nutritive value. It is not only easily and completely assimilated—even when the digestion is impaired—but it assists the digestion of several times its weight of ordinary food.

Consider the constituents from which "Ovaltine" is made. Ripe barley malt, creamy milk from England's richest pastures, eggs, and a cocoa flavouring. Milk is Nature's food par excellence. Eggs provide the only reliable source for supplying lecithin (organic phosphorus)—the essential requirement for building up brain and nerves.

In every part of the civilised world and in countless thousands of homes "Ovaltine" is relied upon as the natural means for obtaining good health. The reduced prices bring "Ovaltine" within the purchasing powers of every home and will enable it to be used regularly by everyone. It is the most economical as well as the most perfect form of concentrated nourishment in the world.

"I suppose you want me to tell you something about the show. Did I find the people of Canada unresponsive to English humor? I may safely say this, that in Montreal I arrived frightened of the French element, and got a wonderful reception, while in Winnipeg I never remember hearing such continuous and uproarious laughter during my forty years' experience on the stage," said Mr. George Robey, who has been called the Prime Minister of Mirth in Great Britain, on his arrival here yesterday.

Duck Hunters Swept Over Niagara Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 1.—Two duck hunters are believed to have been swept to their death over the falls here on Saturday afternoon when their boat, caught by the strong current, was carried over the falls and smashed to pieces on the rocks below. Pieces of the boat were picked up by lifesavers, but no trace of the bodies has yet been found. A number of persons stated that they saw the men leap from the boat before it reached the brink of the cataract.

Stars in International Oratory Contest

CHAMPION orators of France, Germany and England were in Canada last week en route to Washington, where they will meet four other champions, from the United States, Cuba, Mexico and the Argentine, for the international championship. From left to right, above are: Heinz Bart, of Berlin, German champion; William Fox, Jr., of London, Canadian champion; Rene Ponthieu, of Paris, French champion, and Dudley Barker, of Bournemouth, English champion. These young men are the winners in their own countries of the international oratorical contests.

BILLIE DOVE IN THE NIGHT WATCH

Beautiful Star Has Most Appealing Role in Feature at Capitol

An intensely dramatic climax laid in a powerful story of unusual setting makes "The Night Watch," the first National picture which opened last night at the Capitol Theatre, a highly worth-while screen production. Billie Dove, never more beautiful nor charming, has what many will regard as the most dramatic role of her starring career and one which called upon all her emotional powers for a convincing characterization. She plays the wife of a naval officer who is falsely implicated in a murder which can only be cleared up by her testimony and this testimony will cast a shadow upon her own honor. In this role Miss Dove displayed unusual dramatic qualities, and at the same time maintained a fine restraint in her characterization. On the stage today are: "The Night Watch," starring Billie Dove; "The Grip of the Yukon," starring Glenn Tyron; "The Patriot," starring Emil Jannings; "The Shepherd of the Hills," starring Alex. B. Francis. Rogers for First National Pictures. Reproducing the human characters of Wright's book are: Alex. B. Francis, in the title role; Molly O'Day and John Boles, as the lovers; Matthew Betz as the villain of the piece; Romaine Fielding, Otto Harlan, Joseph Bennett and other notable players.

COLISEUM THEATRE

European, directed the film masterpiece, and has won new laurels. Jannings is, to put it mildly, superb. There is little doubt he has achieved the greatest acting of his career in "The Patriot." Portraying a character with the heart of a child, and the brain of a tiger, Jannings has brought to the screen and modern times a figure of history, Mod Czar Paul I. of Russia. Florence Vidor as the Countess Ostermann glides through her role like a delightful dream. Neil Hamilton as the Crown Prince Alexander treats his role in a very human way. Vera Voronina and Harry Corda are two others who stand out with their work. No words can describe adequately the tremendous appeal as is mirrored on the screen in this production. It is the peak of cinematic achievement.

GLINN TYRON WITH LAURA LA PLANTE

Two Leading Artists Have Able Support in Picture Showing at Coliseum

Glenn Tyron, Universal's new comedy star, is supporting Laura La Plante in her latest, "Thanks for the Buggy Ride," which opened at the Coliseum Theatre last night. Tyron has suddenly blossomed forth in the motion picture firmament but his background gives a good reason for his instant success. He was born in Butte, Montana, where he received his early education. He spent two years as a dancer in a road show and then friends secured him a job in the Majestic Stock Company in Los Angeles. Then he went on the road in vaudeville and ended in an obscure New York theatre. Here Hal Roach discovered him and started him in short comedies. But Tyron had bigger ambitions. He returned to the stage in Los Angeles and was there seen by Carl Laemmle. "The Flying Nut" was his second picture and "Thanks for the Buggy Ride" his third. The supporting cast of the last includes Richard Tucker, Lee Moran, Jack Raymond, David Rolins, Kate Price and Tricie Friganza, William A. Seiter directed. With one of their finest offerings since opening at the Coliseum Theatre here four weeks ago, the Lee Jaxon Players last evening presented to a large and appreciative audience the amusing comedy "Kiss Me, Cinderella." With the members of the company at their best and each put into the right part the play was a riot of laughter from the time the curtain went up until its final descent. Since opening here the company has been joined by Miss Peggy Lewis, Victoria's well-known comedienne, and last night Peggy appeared at her best. Miss Dorothy Raymond is also featured on the programme this week, as is Miss B. Breams, also a clever little comedienne and singer of blues songs. Lee Jaxon, the leader of the company, also has a part in this week's offering.

Trumbull Writes On Mound Artists In Coming Series

Says New York Will Rely on Hoyt, Pipgras, Zachary, Heimach or Johnson—Cards Have Sherdel, Alexander, Haines and Mitchell

By WALTER TRUMBULL
Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance

It was Sunday in the Alamog Hotel, New York, and points East. Donie Bush and your correspondent had decided to miss the last ball game of the season, as we were of the opinion that both the Cards and Giants would play their second teams.

Furthermore, the weather was chilly. Even the rumor that Judge Landis was likely to be among the sturdy and faithful Arctic explorers in the stands had failed to move us. We sat and talked baseball while others watched and played it.

As the Pittsburgh manager explained to me how his machine had come apart, and his pitchers had developed everything except fast balls and curves, the doorway darkened and into the lobby strode the tall form of Grover Cleveland Alexander, Alex, the Great.

"You didn't wait for the last out of the National League season?" I ventured.

"No," he replied. "I wanted to pinch hit for Jim Bottomley, but they wouldn't let me. So I got disgusted and left."

"Well," I said, continuing the conversation as Alex lit a cigarette. "You've got yourself into another world series, and you rather like to pitch against the Yankees, don't you?"

"I like to pitch against any club," Alex answered. "Either they are better than you are, or you are better than they are, and it's interesting to find out which."

"You did pretty well against them in 1926," I asserted with great truth.

"Yes," said Mr. Alexander, with more animation. "Yes, I did. You know, it was funny about that series. I could put the ball anywhere I wanted it. I'd just say to myself 'I guess I'd better put this next ball there,' and I could look up at the stand or anywhere while I threw it, but there she'd be, in the right spot."

"I couldn't have placed, those balls any better with my hand. A lot of people have asked me if I passed Ruth intentionally, that last inning of the last game. I should think," Alex seemed resentful, "that anyone who saw the game would know better than to think I had him struck out twice. I wouldn't argue about one of those pitches, but the other one was over. And it didn't just kick the corner. The whole ball was over the plate. I started for the bench, but they called it a ball."

He shook his head at the injustice, past, but not forgotten. "A lot of players I know were in the stand back of the plate," Alex went on, "and all of them have told me that I struck out the Babe. I know I did, but I wasn't umpiring."

As he spoke, I thought of his record in that series of 1926. He pitched twenty and one-third innings. He allowed twelve hits and four runs. He gave four bases on balls and struck out seventeen men.

Alexander won the second game of the 1926 series by a score of 6 to 2. He won the sixth game 10 to 2. The following day they called him in to relieve Haines in the seventh inning, with St. Louis one run ahead, a Yankee on every base, two out and Lazzari at bat.

Alex struck out Lazzari on three pitched balls. The five batters following went out in order, but Ruth walked. The Babe came up, trying to steal, so only seven batters faced Alexander in that one and one-third innings. That finished the series and made the Cards champions. Some pitching!

Pitching is sixty per cent of a world's series. Some say it is.

GOLF
AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

May a player clean his ball in competition.

By WILLIE HUNTER

No, a ball may not be cleaned in competition unless a special ruling has been made to allow for very heavy conditions, when a ball is likely to pick up a great deal of mud. Local committees are allowed to make a rule that the ball may be cleaned on the green, but in no other place. The penalties specified for infractions of this rule are disqualification in medal play and loss of hole in match play, although I have never seen that happen in tournament competition. It has been necessary in several tournaments to allow this, due to extremely muddy conditions.

eighty per cent and they may be right. So we might as well look over some of the pitchers in these coming games.

FOUR STARTING PITCHERS
The four starting pitchers for St. Louis probably will be Sherdel, Alexander, Haines and Mitchell. The supporting pitchers will be Johnson, Rhen and McKechnie, who will pitch in the fifth, sixth and seventh games.

Hoyt, Pipgras, Zachary, and Heimach or Johnson, will be the New York mainstay, with everything else in the hands of the Cards.

Sherdel pitched the first and fifth games in the 1926 series and pitched well, but in each case he was unlucky enough to face Pennock at his best. In the opener Pennock let St. Louis down with his hit, and won, 2 to 1. In the fifth game Pennock held the Cards to six hits, and won, 3 to 2.

In the seventh game, Sherdel pitched he allowed fifteen hits and four earned runs. This season he has won twenty games. Sherdel is a wise little left-hander who, as ball players say, has everything. He might start against New York Thursday.

Jess Haines is a knuckle-ball pitcher, although he has a fine fast ball with a hop on it. Alexander told me the reason Haines lost control in the last game in 1926 was that in continually throwing the knuckle ball he had torn the skin on one of his fingers. This delivery is a curve ball.

Haines this year has been the most effective pitcher of the St. Louis staff. In 1926 he shut the Yankees out in the third game, and in the seventh game he had three home runs for himself, and won, 2 to 1. In the eighth game, he was struck out five times. Koenig and Lazzari never got a hit off him. The Yankees are strictly a fast ball pitcher, and Mitchell is, of course, a most annoying and experienced southpaw spitter.

PENNOCK ONLY OTHER
Except pennock, the only Yankee pitcher now with the team who worked in that 1926 series is Hoyt. He won the fourth game, 10 to 5, being so obliging as to sock three home runs for himself, and three official times at bat. Ruth also drew a base on balls, and got around to home that time, so he scored four runs during the afternoon.

Hoyt pitched six innings of the last game against the Cards, and they didn't score a run off him, but they made three in the fourth inning, when Waite's comrades tossed in a couple of errors. Hoyt in that game pitched for nineteen hits in fifteen innings.

It is largely due to Hoyt's pitching that the Yankees are in the Brooklyn lead ball boy is almost sure to start the opening game. He marked up his twenty-second victory for the year in the last game of the American League season. And if Ruth wishes to induce his home run complex while Hoyt is pitching in the world series, it will be all right with Waite. The Babe has only busted a total of 470 clouts in American League games and about ten more in world series.

The Bambino had better hustle. Time is flying.

Pipgras is a pitcher with a fine change of pace, and when he is going right he is a mighty hard man for any team to beat. Wise old Zachary might annoy the St. Louis team considerably. It is possible Heimach might. The Cards are not always effective against a left hander, if he happens to have control. But with Pennock out and Moore gone it looks as if St. Louis had the preponderance of pitching strength.

One thing is fairly sure: To win this series the New York pitchers must top Bottomley, Haines, and the St. Louis pitchers must stop Gehrig and Ruth.

"I won't say any of them worried me," remarked Alexander, "but I certainly was more careful about pitching to Ruth. That big boy doesn't have to sock one but once to bust up a ball game. Yes, when the Babe comes up to that plate I pay a pitcher to use a little thought and deliberation."

Well, as Alex says, when he and the Babe face each other again one of them will be better than the other, and it will be interesting to find out which.

Jackie Fields Gives Thompson Severe Beating

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Jackie Fields, sensational young Los Angeles fighter, reached the heights to tonight when he gave Young Jack Thompson, San Francisco welterweight champion, a terrific beating in ten rounds at the States Armory.

A record-breaking crowd of 10,000 fans saw Fields bombard Thompson to win seven rounds and have the Negro almost out on his feet in the last three rounds. Two rounds were credited to Thompson and one round was even.

Reigh Count Saved When Hertz Stable Destroyed by Blaze

GARY, Ill., Oct. 1.—The racing stables here of John Hertz, owner of Reigh Count, and chairman of the board of the Yellow Cab Company, were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin tonight. Reigh Count, winner of the last Kentucky Derby and the country's leading three-year-old, was saved, being led blindfolded from the burning barn. Other thoroughbreds valued at $200,000, were lost in the flames.

AL ESPINOSA WINS MEDAL IN PRO GOLF

Illinois Professional Turns In Cards of 142 to Top Tommy Armour by Four Strokes

WALTER HAGEN TIED FOR FOURTH PLACE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 1.—Al Espinosa won the qualifying medal in the seventh national championship of the Professional Golf Association, which got under way today.

The young pro from the Illinois Country Club turned in 142 over the difficult Five Farms course of the Baltimore Country Club, to lead his nearest rival, Tommy Armour, by four strokes in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round. Sarazen was in third place with 149 and finished the day with 150.

George Christ, of Rochester, N.Y., and Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., tied for fourth place with 145. Low scores were few and 100 was good enough to qualify. How well Espinosa was playing today was shown by the fact that he made four holes in one, a feat which is a water hazard almost to the death. It was there Hagen met disaster.

Espinosa meets Johnny Golden while Hagen is pitted against Willie Ogg in the draw for match play which gets under way tomorrow morning. Sarazen plays Bill Melhorn, and Armour encounters Jim Barnes.

HOOP CHAMPS TO BE NAMED FEB. 10
Vancouver Island Basketball Ass'n Changes Date at Annual Meeting —J. C. Dowds Heads Body

Well-known scores in local and island basketball games, who on Sunday was elected president of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association at the annual meeting held at Nanaimo. Waaldrige is a hard and enthusiastic worker in the interests of the case game.

Hoop champions of Vancouver Island must be declared by February 10, according to a ruling brought in on Sunday at the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Basketball Association held at Nanaimo. Last season the island champions were not named until March 24, and as a result a number of teams were not able to compete in the British Columbia finals. The ruling will meet with favor with the few who are always ready and anxious to witness British Columbia championship games.

The formation of an island loop, which will include teams from Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo and Alberni, was carried out. This will insure the fans of seeing plenty of outside competition during the coming Winter.

In the election of officers, the officers of president and secretary came to Victoria men for a second term. J. C. "Scotty" Dowds was returned at the head of the association, while Gordie Woodbridge, one of the hardest workers, was elected as secretary.

The complete slate of officers follows: President, J. C. Dowds, Victoria; secretary, Gordie Woodbridge, Victoria; executive council, A. H. West, Alberni; Tom Lewis, Nanaimo, and J. Taylor, Victoria.

Greyhounds can run at the rate of fifty-nine to seventy-five feet per second.

"K"—THE ZIPPY CZECH

By Ripley

He is called "K"—this rapid-moving little brown man from Czechoslovakia.

Bill Tilden calls him "the greatest tennis player in the world," and so do Cochet, Lacoste and other experts of the court.

His true name is Karel Kozeluh, which is reason enough for anyone calling him "K"—and he is the world's professional tennis champion. "K" just arrived in this country with Winnie Richards and is booked to play a series of matches which will take him to thirty cities and across to the Pacific coast.

I saw him up at "Doc" Kelton's "Notch" courts where he was running the "Doc" boy-lugged. By the way, I meet this "Doc" Kelton everywhere—he is worth a story himself. He is the best all-around sportsman alive. My profession takes me to sporting events everywhere, but no matter if it is a world's series, a championship fight, a hockey match, polo contest, or a football game, I see this self-same grinning mug of Kelton's shining from the first row. This Summer I went to the new French stadium where Tilden & Co. were trying to win the Davis Cup, and there was Kelton. A few days later he was in the Olympic stadium in Amsterdam—yes! Kelton.

I was talking with "K" and Kelton in the clubhouse after their match. Maybe I should say that I was listening to "K" because he speaks English, fast and fluently, and with both hands.

"Pilsener beer," he panted—"ah—have you no Pilsener beer?" In Europe, I have always pilsener. Such a country is yours, Doc," he concluded sadly.

"Where did I learn English? I speak it very little. An American lady she teach me in Prague. The American lady was the wife of Bohemia's greatest man—President of Czechoslovakia, Thomas Garigue Masaryk. I was ball-boy for their children twenty years ago. Masaryk loved his American wife from Brooklyn so much that he take her name for one of his own."

It was from this humble beginning as ball-boy for the Masaryk children that "K" grew to be the world's best tennis player. Little "K" had fashioned himself a paddle of wood and whenever the chance offered, he and his barefooted brethren would bat an old tennis ball across the net. The "barefooted leaguers," as they were called, grew to be popular and the tennis fans often held their seats to see the kids perform with their wooden paddles, after the championship matches were over.

Kozeluh progressed so rapidly that he turned professional at the age of fourteen and went to work for a club in Germany for a salary of eighty marks a month—good pay, for a tennis pro before the war.

The Kozeluh family is the most famous athletic families in Europe. There were eleven children. "K" has five brothers and two sisters remaining. Four of these brothers are tennis professionals, and are now scattered all over the world, gospel of the courts in Warsaw, Stockholm, Carlsbad and Prague. The other brother is at present in the United States, and one of his sisters is the ladies' tennis champion of that country.

It is a big day in Prague when the Kozeluh family play, and "K" has had five to eight thousand people come to see the four "K" brothers in a doubles match.

"K" won fame as a football player. He played for five years with the Sparta Club, which recently visited America. He was a member of five international teams, including one that made a tour of South America. Ice hockey, however, is his favorite sport. He was a member of the team that won the championship of Europe a few years ago.

"K" decided in 1925, when he won the professional tennis title, that it would be advisable to give up hockey and soccer and confine his efforts to the more profitable sport. The little Czech has not been beaten in a tennis match since 1919, he says, when he lost in five sets to the American, Washburn, in Paris during the Pershing Games. He had just been demolished from the Austrian army and had not touched a tennis racket in five years. Since then his way has been a winning one. He trains the Davis Cup teams of England and Germany, and has never lost a set to any of the cup players in practice, or otherwise. "K" is not that kind. The European stars, such as Lacoste, Cochet, Borotra and others will not engage him in a match; not even in practice, and Tilden has frequently refused to try his skill against the zippy little Czech.

"I am going to turn amateur," he says. "There is to be an open tournament soon so I can play with Cochet and Tilden and the rest of them to prove who is best player. I will turn amateur."

In Europe if it is a year I can play amateur again. It is the rules in Europe that a player must play "K" for a year before he can turn amateur. Just now Kozeluh and Winnie Richards are in the midst of a five-match bet for the world's title. They have played two matches, one in Prague and one in London, and "K" has won both. The other three will be played at the United States.

INDIANAPOLIS HAS LEAD IN LITTLE WORLD'S SERIES
ROCHESTER, N.Y., Oct. 1.—Indianapolis was leading Rochester by one game in the little world's series today as the two teams traveled to Indianapolis where they will renew the contests on Wednesday. The Indians took yesterday's game here 5 to 1 which gave them two to the Red Wings' one.

Rochester's lone victory was the second game which they took 10-5. The third one Saturday resulted in a 12-12 tie after darkness forced a half at the end of the twelfth inning.

Games will be played in Indianapolis Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday with a Sunday game if necessary to decide the championship of Class "A" organized baseball.

Waite Hoyt Describes Yanks Team for Series With St. Louis Cards

Star Pitcher of American League Champs Says There Is Nothing So Far That Will Suggest Outcome of Championship Battle

Waite Hoyt, the New York Yankees' brilliant pitcher, is writing exclusively for this newspaper the American League and of the world series with the St. Louis Cardinals. His first installment will appear in the first issue of the series, which will be published on Thursday. And he will write a story after each day's game.

COMBS AN UNCERTAINTY
Combs has been reported as having a fractured wrist. Then a story was published that he would play. Here's the truth: In the clubhouse today, I asked him how he felt. He said, "Well, I don't know. The wrist is stiff and sore. I am waiting for the final X-ray pictures, which Dr. King will bring pretty soon. I reckon I will be all right. I had a fracture in the phone—the newspaper men—I did not know anything. The way I felt at the time I didn't think I was going to play."

So nobody knows tonight if Combs will play or not. The chances are he will. We need him. A boy with more determination in his little finger than a whole ball club I could not mention. He thinks success, besides it, whether he hits in the series or not, he is a big threat.

Of Paschal and Durst—who, in case Combs cannot play, will alternate in center field against left and right hand pitching—it is not necessary to say much.

Durst is a fine ball player when playing regular. A marvelous fielding, a good hitter, he may surprise the whole country with his ability. Paschal is a death to left-handers. He is a better hitter than lefty, with plenty of experience in tough spots.

Meusel is the same easy-going ball player in a series as in a regular season. A fellow who hits 300 and better each year. Sometimes fifty points behind the league leader. Yet always in the first place in the series in runs. He was out for quite a spell this year, but I still think he is third in that department.

In the infield, I see in the undertaking business. I don't think a comparison of player to player is valuable in doing a series. But I have been asked to do that out of regard for the many fans who find it interesting. What about Ruth?

I don't think a comparison of player to player is valuable in doing a series. But I have been asked to do that out of regard for the many fans who find it interesting. What about Ruth?

For the first three series in the West he hit like Willy Moore. Then he snapped out of it, bending his knees.

After the game I asked him: "Lou, think that will affect you any?"

He answered, through two swollen lips: "Nope. I can't eat the ball. I have to hit it."

LAZZERI WILL BE OUT
Lazzari's arm will not be O.K. again this year. This is a handicap. It has been a serious handicap since it happened. Very few people realize what that boy going through. He can't throw overhead. It is impossible for him to complete a full double play. It is torture when he tries to hurry a runner. Yet he is there, which fact has to do with the confidence of the entire club. A great player who will be runner-up for the valuable player prize.

Koenig, his running mate at shortstop, and roommate and the club jester, has been in two series. Has been all-important in the September drive. Stepped along with Gehrig in hitting, while the only errors he made were at St. Louis, where fielding a ground ball was a bravery.

Dugan and Robertson will alternate at third. When I say Dugan will play against the Cardinals, I am probably the only one who will say it. He has not played for a month, yet he can be depended upon as usual to be one of our greatest mound players.

Robertson is new to the world series. He has lived his baseball life just for this. With that attitude it is hard to expect anything but great things from him.

Bennie Bengough, our colorful catcher, who is jumping and prancing about like a jack-in-the-box, is that so? Bennie will show more of about throwing out runners than lots of receivers of more repute.

FIVE FOR MOUND
Taking the pitchers in a flock, the moundmen who will carry the burden are Pipgras, Zachary, Johnson, Heimach and myself. Anything can happen to a pitching staff. Although the series games in the past have proved that good pitching prevails.

It is said that our pitching staff is weak, too, and not equal to that of the Cardinals. That is a whole story in itself. In my third article comparing the teams, I will go into that.

I have written something about each player on our team who is expected to play an important role in the 1928 world series. Yet, to my mind, nothing can suggest what the outcome will be.

The real answer to that lies in the spirit, attitude and general team play, the breaks and a team's ability to take advantage of them.

Individuals mean nothing in a ball player's opinion. We are the Yankees, and the Yankees are what expect to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals with their combined efforts—not by the influence of our averages or the mental attitude of our opponents. The Cardinals feel the same.

Smart Signals First Used in 1914 Series

The Old Individual Finger Signs Used by Catchers in the Old Days

USING THE BALLS AND STRIKES ON THE HITTERS TO INDICATE A KEY TO COMBINATION FINGER SIGNS

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

In probably no other department of baseball has there been as many radical changes as in catchers' signals to their pitchers during the last fifteen years. Up until 1914 even the smartest of major league catchers had used virtually the same sign for fast, curve and waste balls that were used when they were boys on the sand lots.

In 1914 world series smart baseball men realized that there was nothing to prevent runners on second base from tipping these simple signs to the hitter and letting him know just what kind of ball the pitcher was delivering and what to expect. George Stallings, Hank Gowdy, Johnny Evers and Joe Mauer, who developed the first revolutionary step in catchers' signs when they developed a series of three signs, the second one being the real sign.

Later there developed variations of this system in three signs. The odd and even system was one. The catcher showed a different number of fingers three times in succession. The pitcher simply added up the number of fingers shown by the catcher. If they added up even it called for a fast ball; if they totaled an odd figure, a curve ball was thrown.

Later only one sign was used with a number of key movements that changed it into meaning either a fast ball, curve ball or waste ball. The number of balls and strikes on a batter was used in one system, the batter really unwittingly calling his own signs on himself.

As Told by Big Leaguers

Talking Today

JACK WARNER: How I avoided playing in a small minor league.
DAN HOWLEY: Present-day recruits no better than those of old days.
ROGERS HORNSBY: Proper psychology for winning baseball.

By J. P. GLASS
Jack Warner, the Detroit infielder, says that the first big leaguer with whom he played was Slim Sallee, the old St. Louis Cardinal and New York Giant pitcher. He learned considerable from the veteran portly major, but when it came to considering ways and means of getting into those same majors, Jack used his own noodle.

Lads who figure on diamond careers will do well to read the following words of wisdom as spoken by Warner.

"I was just a kid playing on a semi-pro team at Mount Vernon, Ill., says Jack, 'when big league scouts began to look me over. I had a chance to sign a contract with a dozen different clubs. The ones who seemed most interested were the Cleveland Indians and the Chicago White Sox.'

"In an exhibition game against the White Sox, I made three hits and had a good day. Kid Gleason, the Chicago manager, decided to come after me. Ray Schalk, the Sox catcher, being from a nearby town, knew me, so, and recommended me.

"Well, while I was considering things, along came Ham Patterson, the old first baseman, who was coaching for the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League, and offered me more money than any big league club had mentioned.

"It looked to me like this: A chance to play in a big league club, a big thing, but could I stick? Wasn't it a 10-to-1 shot that I would be turned over to some Class B team, or even lower, for development? How long would I be getting up again?

"Vernon was willing to sign a contract which would make me a free agent if I didn't make good. I stuck out for that. On getting it, I signed, and let the big leagues slide. I think I did right. I made good in the Coast League, and then came up to the American without having had to go through the lesser minors."

Some sense to that, lads. Think over if you're planning to play ball for a living.

Incidentally, Warner's observations show just how keenly the baseball crop is being watched, now.

SAME IN OLD DAYS
The remarkable success of a great many young players this year indicates to some folks that there either are more good ones in the bushes these days than there used to be, or that the majors aren't as fast as they once were.

Consider the list of lads who have made good in 1928: Ott, O'Doul, Cohen and Hubbell, of the Giants; Bissnette and Clark, of Brooklyn; Brickell, Scott, Bartell and Fussell, of the Pirates; Earnshaw, Fox and Orwell, of the Athletics; Orsatti, of the Cardinals; Barnes, of Washington; Hargrave and Correll, of Detroit; Jablanowski, Cincinnati; Morris, of the Red Sox; Kress and Bettemourt, of the Browns; Sweetland, of the Braves; the Phillies; Brandt, of the Braves, and many others.

Isn't that a large proportion of successful debut?

Asked about it, Manager Dan Howley, of the Browns, gave this opinion:

"There aren't any better players in the minors now than there used to be, nor are the leagues weaker. If they show anything at all, they get a chance right off. The managers are willing to gamble."

"The old-time managers were more conservative. They nursed the young fellows along until they were pretty certain of them. Nowadays, if they show anything at all, they get a chance right off. The managers are willing to gamble."

While on this subject one matter of interest to the fans is: What chance does Rogers Hornsby, the present manager, have of making good in the American without having had to go through the lesser minors?

Some sense to that, lads. Think over if you're planning to play ball for a living.

Incidentally, Warner's observations show just how keenly the baseball crop is being watched, now.

BRVES MUST CHANGE

doldrums, it is hard to consider the Blues as having anything but a losing psychology.

Manager Howley, of the Browns, by the way, does not have this trouble to deal with.

"That bunch of mine always figure that the other team simply can't beat them," says Dan. "When they lose a game they think it was an unexplainable mistake."

GOOSE GOSLIN WINS AMERICAN BATTING
Washington Outfielder Beat Out Heinie Manush of St. Louis Browns by Single Point

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—By the margin of a single point, "Goose" Goslin, Washington outfielder, beat out Heinie Manush, of St. Louis, for the batting championship of the 1928 American League season, unofficial averages compiled last night show Goslin's average was .379, while Manush's was .378.

With both Paul Warner and Rogers Hornsby through for the season, there was no change in the final figures of Saturday. The Boston manager won his seventh championship with a mark of .387 for 140 games. He was at bat 486 times, scored 99 runs and made 188 hits. The elder Warner hit .370 in 152 games. His record was based on 603 times at bat, 141 runs and 223 hits.

With the possibility of six teams in the City League—Colonist Night Owls (last year's champions), Colonist, Victoria Photograph Co. and James Island. The Eagles and Five Roses Flour are expected to enter this division and complete the six-team loop.

Teams entered to date are as follows:
City League—Colonist Night Owls (last year's champions), Colonist, Victoria Photograph Co. and James Island. The Eagles and Five Roses Flour are expected to enter this division and complete the six-team loop.

Commercial League—Cableship Reator, "A" and "B" teams; Poodle Dog Cafe, Stocker's Express, and Victoria Baggage. It is expected that the Eagles will enter this league also.

All clubs wishing to enter may file their entry with Frank Moore at the Arcade Alley, while any bowlers wishing to roll on any of the teams can leave their names with the management of the alleys.

Horace Beer, of the Poodle Dog Cafe, has donated a cup for the highest average in the Commercial League.

MEETING TONIGHT
An organization meeting of the proposed five-pin league will be held at the Arcade Alley, Pemberton Building, tonight at 8 o'clock. All bowlers interested in this new project are invited to attend. A number of teams are already assured in the loop, while there are still vacancies for any others that wish to enter.

Football Meeting
A meeting of the Victoria and District Juvenile Football League will be held at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow at 8 o'clock. All clubs are requested to have a delegate present.

Loughran Says Giants Of Ring Easier to Beat

Finds in Bout With Jack Gross That Heavyweights Offer Larger and Slower Target—Champ Thinks He Won Every Round

By TOMMY LOUGHRAN
Light-Heavyweight Champion of the World (Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—By beating Jack Gross in ten rounds at the Phillies' ball park tonight I think I have demonstrated the fact that I am in line for the heavy-weight title Gene Tunney has resigned.

It seemed to me that I won all of the ten rounds from the 202-pound giant, who had knocked out twenty-one of the thirty opponents he has fought, and who months ago.

This was the second time I had boxed before my home town fans since I won the light-heavyweight title. About 25,000 of them came out to see the fight and I hope and feel that I showed them what they might expect from me among the heavyweights.

I have found that beating big fellows is a comparatively easier task than taking the little ones over. They offer a bigger and slower target. It's true that I didn't knock him out, but I did have him in trouble, and I'm certain that I am in line for the rest.

Probably the spectators were a bit surprised not to see me use a left jab on Gross. That left has been my best weapon in winning most of my fights, but this was a different fight. Gross is a southpaw. He is several inches taller and scales nineteen pounds more than I did. It wouldn't do any good to poke at him with a left. It wouldn't reach that sort of a target very effectively. Instead, I found him open for a straight right, and I kept whanging that in from the start.

I permitted Gross to come to me and then let go with the right. I landed plenty. Jack is game and aggressive. For a youngster, he fought a fine, courageous fight, and I'll take my hat off to him on those counts. There's no question of his ruggedness. The gigantic Roberto Roberti wanded plenty on him with-out apparently hurting him.

In the third round, though, I staggered him. That convinced me that with the added weight I'm carrying I can hit enough for the heavyweights. You see, in my training at Harvey's Lake I worked with the idea of building myself up. I came into the ring at 183 pounds, and felt strong as a bull, but without losing any of my speed.

ONLY FELT ONE BLOW
Gross kept rushing, with his left cocked and ready for business. For the first half of the fight he landed only one blow that I felt. It was a glancing punch, but it showed that he had a lot of dynamite in it. However, these southpaws are usually open to right-handers by the very manner of their boxing style, and it wasn't so hard to score.

Jack began to bleed pretty badly in the sixth from a gash over his left eye and from a badly bungled nose. He was game, though, and never stopped trying.

In the ninth I came closest to knocking him out. A right to the stomach, with plenty in back of it, doubled him up, and he was on the verge of going down. He hauled himself into a crouch and held on before the bell, which prevented me from stopping him then.

It was one of the most satisfactory bouts I ever fought. As a start in the heavyweights campaign it was auspicious. A lot of people told me I was foolish to take a chance with the sluggish young southpaw, but I think I was right. Now I'm ready for the rest.

COLWOOD GOLFERS WIN TROPHIES
Locals Bring Home Cups From Sound City by Defeating Rainier and Ingwood

The Colwood golfers added two more pieces of silverware to their collection over the week-end, when they returned home from the Sound City with the Langley and Colwood Cups. They captured the former by defeating the Rainier Golf Club representatives in a home-and-home series by one point. Colwood assumed a twenty-nine-point lead in the Spring, but this was reduced by twenty-eight in their match on Saturday.

The local mashie wielders received another defeat in their match against Ingwood for the Colwood Cup, donated by J. Wenger, local jeweler, but they had piled up points here to give them victory. About thirty golfers made the journey and thoroughly enjoyed it.

The shooting demonstration that was to have been given yesterday afternoon at the Colwood traps, was postponed on account of rain. Mr. Elliott will demonstrate this afternoon at 3 o'clock, weather permitting.

AMERICAN COLLEGE HOCKEY STAR SIGNS WITH N.Y. RANGERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Professional hockey today claimed Myles Lane, all-around Dartmouth athlete and one of the few college puckchases considered proficient enough to play league hockey. Lane signed a contract to play defense this season for the New York Rangers, world's professional champions.

Lane is the first American college player to report to the National Hockey League ranks, where Canadians or Canadian-born skaters provide most of the material.

Bottomley Declares Loss of Lead Twice Made Cards Fight

Cardinals' First Baseman, in Opening Article to The Colonist, Comments on Great National Drive and Coming Series

(Jim Bottomley, leading first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, National League pennant winners, is writing exclusively for this newspaper, the National League end of the world series with the New York Yankees. He will write two more advance stories, one for Wednesday the other for Thursday. And he also will write a story after each day's game.)

By JIM BOTTOMLEY
First Baseman, St. Louis Cardinals, National League Pennant Winners
(Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

That fight up the National League hill certainly was a tough five and a half months' pull. It was even a steeper drill than the one we had to make in 1926 to meet the Yankees. At that time I thought I had been through the hardest campaign I would ever encounter, but this 1928 grind made me change my opinion. I don't think I'll ever see its equal.

Do you know what I believe made the Cardinal Club fight its hardest down that dizzy stretch drive? In my opinion it was our frenzied desire to come back after twice losing substantial leads.

As you know, we were six and a half games in the front on the morning of August 7. That was a fat advantage at that time of the year, but we lost it in just two weeks, dropping nine out of twelve games while the Giants were winning eight out of ten.

That was a tough enough jolt, but we had another in store for us. We recovered from that slump, and our success of the next two weeks, simultaneous with new York's disastrous decline, gave us a five and a half game command with less than a month to go. It looked as if we "were in."

But we dropped the Labor Day double-header in Cincinnati, thus losing the lead to the Yankees.

However, we had what we consider our "ace in the hole." We were to finish the season on the road, and we were confident we could win these. That confidence was founded in the success of our previous trips, particularly the one in June, when we put together that sensational record of twenty-one victories in twenty-seven games, all played on the field of the enemy.

We never had another expedition to match that one, but all of the four other road trips were winners. The second best of the group was the September drive, when we clinched the pennant. Of our grand total of ninety-five victories for the season, fifty-three were won on the road.

Hence we are not bothered by the fact that the world series opens in the Yankee Stadium. You'll recall the fact that of our four victories in the 1926 series, three were scored in the Yankee Park.

We are well fortified in all departments for this clash with the American Leaguers. We have had three of the best pitchers in baseball, Haines, Alexander and Sherdel, starting for us throughout the season. These three were caulked by Flint Rhem's stout pitching for the first half of the season by Clarence Mitchell's spitball during the second half, and by a sound second string staff throughout the year.

We fell off in batting after July, but our defense was so steady that I don't think it has varied more than one or two points during the last three months. The figures prove that we have the best fly chaser in baseball, Taylor Douthitt, in center field. Chick Hefey, in left, besides being a sure catch, owns the most powerfully accurate throwing arm in the game, in my opinion. Two dependable fielders, Harper and Holm, will alternate in right field during the series.

NO FLAW IN CARDS
A team's strength depends upon its backbone, which extends from the catcher out to centre field. I don't think there's a flaw in our spine. We have one of the game's smartest, most active and best-throwing catchers in Jimmy Wilson, with the veteran Earl Smith in reserve.

Now I am sure you'll agree with me that there's hardly a better second base combination than Frankie Frisch and Rabbit Maranville. They can do anything around the midway.

Rounding out the infield are

Andy High at third base, and yours truly at first. High, obtained from the Braves last spring, has proved to us there is no better third baseman in a crisis. Tommy Thevenow, hero of the 1926 world series; Wattle Holm, and Ernie Orsatti, are the reserve infielders. But Holm, of course, will play the outfield against the Yankees, unless needed as an inner cog. Orsatti also is available for outfield duty, in a pinch, as well as the veteran Ray Blades. Wallie Roetger, who batted and fielded brilliantly until he broke an ankle, July 4, is not expected to play.

We were not the best hitting club in the National League, but we had a balanced attack. We had sharp place hitters and no team had more sluggers. Hefey was the hardest hitter in the league after July. Few teams, if any, showed us any dust on the bases, with Frisch as our salient stealer.

Our spirit is excellent, of course, following our National League triumph, and fortunately we are in grand shape physically for the world series. Haines, Alexander or Sherdel will pitch the first game.

LEAGUE BALL COMES TO CLOSE

Waite Hoyt Wins $2,000 Bonus for Pitching 22 Wins During Season
Ruth Hits Another

YANKS ALMOST LOSE SERVICES OF GEHRIG

The major league drama is done for another season, but the Yankees and the Cards still have an epilogue to offer. They meet in the world's series, starting at New York on Thursday and ending when one team has won four games.

With both pennant campaigns already decided there was not much to interest the baseball fan in yesterday's engagements. Most of the game's faithful stayed away in large numbers, some of them no doubt resting up for the combat to come later this week.

With a $2,000 bonus as incentive, Waite Hoyt, right-handed ace of the Yankees, pitched the Cardinals to a 7-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

GEHRIG HIT IN FACE
Hoyt had been promised the bonus if he won twenty-two games this year. He was cuffed about rather freely by the Tigers, but won his reward with the aid of Babe Ruth's fifty-fourth and Lou Gehrig's twenty-seventh home runs. Already badly crippled, the Yankees narrowly escaped Gehrig's services for the world's series when the big first baseman was struck in the face by a batted ball in the seventh. He collapsed, but recovered sufficiently to walk off the field.

The Philadelphia Athletics finished the season 21-2 games behind the Yankees when they lost to the Chicago White Sox.

Goose Goslin's homer with two on in the fifth was the high spot in Washington's 9-1 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

The Boston Red Sox romped to an easy 7-2 victory over Cleveland, Phil Todd getting a homer and three singles.

CARDS TAKE IT EASY
The St. Louis Cardinals, their second National League championship tucked away, did little but go through the motions at the Polo Grounds and lost to the Giants, 4 to 2.

The Chicago Cubs, in third place, took the Cincinnati Reds into camp, 6 to 1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, although no higher than sixth, ended the season with one more victory than defeat when the Phillies were beaten 5 to 1. It was the first time since 1924 that the Dodgers have finished with a percentage of .500 or better.

CODE INSTALLED

There is no room for guess work when a warm air heating system is installed in accordance with the specifications of the Standard Code.

NO need to sleep in an ice house! No matter how bitter cold it may be outside, comfort should be yours.

The McClary "Sunshine" Furnace heats the house by the most healthful, economical and efficient method known to science—humidified WARM AIR. Unlike the dry, dead heat from iron radiators, the air in "Sunshine" homes is properly moistened . . . constantly re-circulated . . . ever moving . . . fresh . . . invigorating!

Through the exclusive "Ventblast" ring, super-heated air is sprayed over the coals. This mixes with the gases, smoke and volatiles, instantly igniting them into an intensely hot flame. The McClary "Sunshine" delivers all the heat, and gives freedom from odors, soot and coal dust. It costs much less to install this guaranteed McClary Warm Air System than hot water or steam systems. How Barren, Mute and Empty is a Room Without its Rug!

THE icy hand of winter stretches out and takes from a garden its colorful beauty and freshness. How similar is the effect when a room is stripped bare of its Barrymore Rug! Where is the serene relationship that existed between all the furnishings? . . . why do they appear so angular and harsh? . . . where is that spirit of hospitality and cheerfulness?

Just as Nature binds its colorings together by a boundless green carpet, even thus does a Barrymore bring unity to your whole room scheme. The rich mellow colorings of the rug find their echoing notes in the tints of the walls, curtains, upholstery. The lustrous, luxurious pile invites the tread . . . the whole room is a silent gesture of welcome!

Study each room in your house with a critical eye, and ask yourself frankly if new rugs would not make a real, striking difference. Then visit any good house furnishing store (they all sell Barrymores) and learn the small amount it would take to recarpet with the beautiful, famous Barrymore. "Amazing—so many women must learn this from others"

—writes a Toronto hostess

The embarrassment of this grave social offense is finally ended. This scientific sanitary pad is now treated by patented process to end all offense.

WHERE smart women gather socially—or in business—even the most attractive are guilty of offending others at certain times. Yet they, themselves, seldom realize it. When told, they become miserably self-conscious. They try in vain to overcome the difficulty by makeshift methods. Now science offers safe and certain relief from this feat.

Kotex now scientifically deodorizes Millions of women have learned to depend on Kotex within the last ten years. It has brought them better health, greater peace-of-mind under trying conditions. Now comes an added advantage Kotex chemists have discovered (and patented) a process that absolutely ends all odors. After several years of research, the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

No more bulky outlines

That awful feeling of being conspicuous because of the bulkiness of old-time methods is gone, too. Kotex pads are rounded and tapered so there is no evidence of sanitary protection when worn. You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or departmental store . . . 60c for a box of twelve.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

- 1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pleated filler absorbs as no other substance can.
- 2—Corners are rounded and tapered, no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown.
- 3—Deodorizes safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process.
- 4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required.
- 5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

The Three Important Points

When buying an engine, there are three things to look for: Reliability, Economy of Operation, and Durability. Large corporations, who are keen buyers, are users of Fairbanks-Morse Diesel Engines, and are getting very satisfactory service. Such companies as the Laurentide Pulp & Paper Co., the Canadian International Paper Co., the Newfoundland Power & Paper Co., use them for tug boat service; the largest fishery companies on the Atlantic Coast use them exclusively, and there are numerous owners on the Pacific Coast. POET ADDRESSES CANADIAN CLUB

Mr. A. M. Stephens Proves Successful Entertainer at Nanaimo—Makes Strong Appeal for Art

NANAIMO, Sept. 29.—A large number of members from Nanaimo's Canadian Club were entertained last evening at the Malaspina Hotel by A. M. Stephens, Canadian novelist, poet and dramatist, in the banquet hall. He proved himself a great success in the way of entertainment, which was shown by the applause.

He captivated the hearts of everyone present when he recited "The House of Beauty," an unpublished poem, which depicts his own peculiar artistic creed. He also made a hit when he recited "Capitano Waters."

Mr. Stephens made a strong appeal for the advancement of Canadian art and literature, and strongly stressed the importance of encouraging its progress by those who were interested in perpetuating the ideals of Canada. He suggested the good to be accomplished by the Canadian Club in striving to build a national consciousness, and hinted at the influence which the republic to the south would ultimately have upon the Canadian nation if the ideals of the country were not placed before the school children and the people of Canada, and of the good which Canadian literature and art could accomplish to a tremendous extent. Since 1867, when Canadian literature was first introduced, Canada had kept abreast with any country in the world in its advancement.

At the conclusion of his address he was given a hearty vote of thanks. Musical selections then followed, those taking part being Mrs. McNeill and Miss Dobson, with McNeill as accompanist. Mrs. O. H. Barker, president, presided at the meeting.

Cloverdale P.T.A. To Elect Officers

The annual meeting of the Cloverdale Parent-Teachers' Association, will be held in the Cloverdale schoolroom, tomorrow evening, at 8 o'clock. In addition to important business to come before the meeting, the election of officers will take place and it is hoped the large attendance of parent teachers and others will be at the meeting.

Cowichan Health Centre

DUNCAN, Oct. 1.—The monthly meeting of the Cowichan Health Centre Committee was held in the Health Centre office on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Moss, O.B.E., presided. Members present were Messdames Matland-Dougall, L. T. Price, R. C. Macgregor, G. Owens, B. A. McMillan, H. Kayll, J. N. O'Neill, L. F. Solly, P. A. Bretingham, G. Tisdall, R. H. Whiddell, F. Gannon, T. C. Robson, Miss B. Foster and Miss M. Claxton. The date for the closing of the membership drive was extended to October 31. Mrs. Solly returned the splendid sum of $58.90 from the Holmes district. Mrs. McMillan, who is unable to canvass the Cobble Hill district this year, was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for her valuable assistance in former drives. Mrs. O'Neill and Mrs. Solly were officially welcomed as new members of the committee. The resignation of Miss Nora Armstrong from the nursing staff was accepted with regret. Miss Armstrong has been appointed in charge of school nursing at Nanaimo. Miss A. Yates, an honor graduate of the University of British Columbia, will join the nursing staff on October 1. Miss Claxton, nursing supervisor, reported service started at the Mill Bay School with a present enrollment of twenty-four pupils. The dental clinic is now being held at Duncan Consolidated School, eighty-four pupils having been examined to date. The monthly receipts have been $408.30; expenditures $345.83. Mrs. Moss was authorized to present the Health Centre financial statement to the Health Unit Committee, also to represent the Centre on that committee. A well baby clinic was held on Wednesday afternoon. Dr. E. L. Garner was in attendance and eleven babies were present.

Conservatives Will Hold Their Annual Meeting Next Week

The Conservatives of Saanich will hold their annual meeting on Tuesday, October 9, in the rooms of the association, Campbell Building. Matters of considerable importance will come before this meeting, including the election of officers and the presentation of the annual report.

The officers to be elected at the meeting will be a president, three vice-presidents and a secretary-treasurer, as well as an executive committee.

After the business has been transacted, it is expected there will be addresses delivered by some of the prominent Conservatives of the city and district, including Hon. Dr. Tolmie, Premier of British Columbia.

The meeting will be presided over by Colonel Woods, president of the association, and a large attendance of members from Saanich is anticipated.

After the meeting a social gathering will be held, when refreshments will be served.

Scout Commissioner Speaks at Cumberland

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 1.—On Wednesday evening in the Anglican Hall, Mr. H. T. Ravenhill, Scoutmaster for the Island, gave a very interesting address on "Scouting."

The speaker declared that the value of the scout movement is very real, and made a strong plea to the men of the town for their support by being leaders or by making contributions to the organization.

Rev. E. O. Robathan intimated that he would do all he could to promote this good work, but he did not want it left entirely on his shoulders. He declared that in the past there had been an organization in Cumberland, but for lack of leaders and support it had proved to be a failure. He felt that if a committee of men could be found to help to promote the movement a strong organization might be formed here.

Boy Foresters at Nanaimo Initiated

NANAIMO, Oct. 1.—Some forty boys were initiated into the Order of the Foresters lodge Friday evening, which was held in the Foresters Hall. A musical programme was rendered and a dainty supper served, which brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

The boys' order is making an effort to get 100 boys as members, they have a membership now of 250, and a special programme is being prepared for the winter months.

COLWOOD OPTIMISTS

The annual meeting of the Colwood Optimist Club will be held on Saturday at 7:15 p.m. Each member is asked to take a knife and fork.

DEBATE ON RADIO'S VALUE TO CHURCH

Courtenay Speaker Thinks It Rather Pleases Preacher Than Assists Work

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 1.—On Wednesday evening in the Anglican Hall, on the conclusion of the rural dean conference of Comox district, a debate was held, the subject under discussion being, "Is Radio an Aid to the Work and Worship of the Church?"

Mr. G. W. Stubbs, of Courtenay, declared that radio was brought into the church rather to please the preacher than to assist in the work of the church. He believed that a sermon without the personal touch was like an English town without the smell of fried fish. When listening to a service being broadcast the personal touch, that actual attendance creates, is absent. Mr. Stubbs pointed out that religion suggests man's search for spiritual serenity, not a blaring horn buzzing out a service with the accompaniment of buzzing wires and static. He also pointed out that a radio audience does not contribute and therefore does not aid in the work of the church, and said one must not mistake novelty for progress.

Mr. E. C. Robathan claimed that radio was a God-given invention to spread the influence of religion into quarters that have not known it before. Cripples who cannot go to church derive spiritual benefit from radio services. Therefore radio is essentially an aid to the work of the church. A lively argument followed the debate and on a show of hands the motion was sustained.

After the meeting a social gathering will be held, when refreshments will be served.

The meeting will be presided over by Colonel Woods, president of the association, and a large attendance of members from Saanich is anticipated.

After the meeting a social gathering will be held, when refreshments will be served.

Ladysmith Evening Classes Popular

LADYSMITH, Oct. 1.—About forty students have already joined the evening classes to be conducted at the high school for the winter months. Messrs. W. Garner, J. H. Tyod and P. H. Spargo are the tutors in charge of the various subjects, which are as follows: French, English, mining, mathematics, woodwork, metal work and showcard writing.

Due to a mistake in the report of the fire at the farmhouse of Mr. Morrison on Wednesday morning, the telephone was said to have been out of order. This, however, was not the case, as Mr. J. W. Hough, in charge of the telephone system here, inspected the phone personally and found it to have been in order.

Comox Cow-Testing

COURTENAY, Sept. 29.—Only two animals are mentioned in the September list of the Comox Cow-Testing Association. This is the lowest number to qualify since the association was formed. Dry weather and shortage of pastureage is probably the chief cause of the decline. The animals are Mr. W. A. Urquhart's Glancy, with 1267 lbs. of milk and 60.8 lbs. of butter-fat, and Mr. G. W. Babcock's three-year Molly, with 1,142 lbs. of milk and 58.2 lbs. of fat, both animals being grade Jerseys.

WINNER OF CONTESTS

LADYSMITH, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Spinto won the Mulkin contest at the recent annual fair of the Agricultural Society.

200 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

So delightfully refreshing—they said 200 years ago

"There's naught like a cup of Fry's for refreshment after the shops, my dear," they said in the long ago.

"It does huck one up"—"Just the thing after a hard day or a strenuous game," they say today.

Such have been the comments on Fry's Cocoa for two centuries—from women in many countries—in cottage and castle—in old lands and new.

The wonderful sustaining qualities of this famous beverage come from skillful preparation of the choicest beans. Its taste-tempting flavour is the result of 200 years of "knowing how."

Have you a tin of FRY'S in the house, now? Every dealer sells it. Look for the familiar FRY yellow label—it is a guarantee of the utmost purity and value in Cocoa.

"And such delicious flavour"—they say in 1928

Cambridge University Is Offered £700,000

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., Oct. 1.—An offer of £700,000 has been made to Cambridge University by the Rockefeller Foundation, Rev. J. A. Weeks, retiring vice-chancellor, announced today. The money is to provide for the development of physical and biological subjects and for a new library.

"Wet" gasoline
Down the cylinder walls into your oil

OUT OF THE CRANKCASE, when you drain it, comes a thin blackish fluid—not the rich oil you bought five hundred or a thousand miles back.

Full of gasoline you bought for power, for mileage. "Wet" gasoline that didn't explode, that trickled down the cylinder walls—worse than wasted for it has ruined your oil!

Yet lubrication men say they are finding many crankcases in which the oil is surprisingly free from dilution!

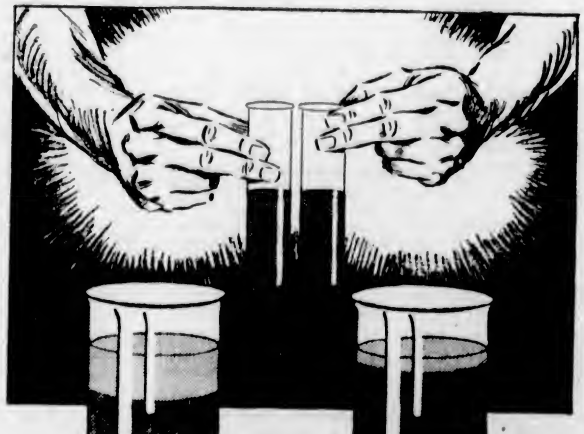

Connect that fact with this:

More and more drivers are careful to buy only Shell 400. Refined to an exact point, Shell 400 goes completely vaporized into the motor—a "dry" gas. It explodes cleanly, swiftly, leaving no "wet" particles, no waste. And so the words "more mileage," "more power," have at last taken on a real meaning!

Fill with Shell 400 today. Use it exclusively. It costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

In starting, Shell 400 requires less choke than "wet" gas but can stand more without causing stalling

An example of what a thousand miles of ordinary driving with ordinary gasoline can do—oil 51% gasoline—thinning caused by incomplete explosion of "wet" gas

Shell 400, the "dry" gas reduces oil thinning to a minimum. Notice this example—only 9.2% in a thousand miles of ordinary driving

Shell 400 The "DRY" GAS

Shell Motor Oil, a new lubricant that forms less carbon, soft carbon, is the ideal running mate for Shell 400. Don't offset the good effects of Shell 400 by using an oil less fine than improved Shell Motor Oil

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Nineteen persons were killed and four critically injured yesterday by six grade crossing automobile accidents in three Eastern states. One such accident in Canada caused three deaths.

HILLSON FACES SERIOUS COUNT

Case of Alleged Defrauder Stood Over Until Tomorrow—Chinese Charged in Court

James Hillson was arraigned in the city police court yesterday before Magistrate George Jay to face a charge of by false pretences and with intent to defraud obtaining $85 from David Spencer, Limited. Mr. Richard C. Lowe appeared as counsel for Hillson, who reserved election until tomorrow morning. Bail was set by the court at $500, in two sureties of $250 each. The accused was arrested by Detectives Stark and Phipps.

Mary J. Marshall, an Indian, pleaded guilty to being in possession of loganberry wine contrary to the Indian Act, and was fined $25, or ten days in jail in default of payment. The circumstances of the case were given by Sergeant Thomas Heatley, who with Constable George Forster took the accused into custody. Bow and twenty other Chinese were charged with being inmates of a common gaming house located in a set of rooms over 557 Flagard Street. Mr. R. C. Lowe was counsel for all the accused and secured a remand of the cases until tomorrow morning. The Chinese were taken in a raid by Sergeant Heatley and squad.

Pleading guilty to failing to bring his motorcar to a full stop upon entering an arterial highway, Harold Boyd paid the court a $5 fine. The case of John Cannon, charged with driving his automobile to the common danger on Cook Street, was remanded for one week.

Esquimalt Court

Leonard Olson was fined $10, or ten days in jail in default of payment by Magistrate George Jay in the Esquimalt police court yesterday for creating a disturbance on Swinford Street. The accused pleaded guilty to the charge. Mr. Gerald H. Seeger, Esquimalt prosecutor, told the court the details of the case.

National Council Of Women of Canada Campaigns for Fund

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—The campaign of the National Council of Women of Canada for a $200,000 foundation fund opens today, and in a statement issued last night Mrs. J. A. Wilson, president, asks for the "sympathetic and generous support of the Canadian public."

The National Council has been in existence for thirty-four years, has 200,000 members, and never before has made an appeal to the public for financial assistance. A foundation fund of $200,000 would enable expansion of the work of the council, maintenance of a central office with an adequate secretariat and statistical department. It would produce an annual income of $10,000 and place the council on a sound business basis.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

STARCHY COMBINATIONS

When you use starches, only one kind should be used at a meal, and this starch should be combined only with the cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. No fruits of any kind—not even tomatoes—should be used with this meal.

The reason for this is that starch digestion begins in the mouth as chewing mixes the saliva with the starch. If acids are used at the same time, the alkalinity of the saliva is spoiled and cannot properly convert the starch into sugar.

If starch, tomatoes and meat are mixed and pass into the stomach, both the meat and tomatoes will stimulate the flow of the gastric juice, which has no digestive element in it that can in any way convert the starch. On the other hand, an excess of gastric juice only cures the starch and makes it unfit for digestion in the intestines, where the principal change of starch takes place.

The simple way then to use starch is to use only one starchy food at a time, and to use it in combination with the different non-starchy vegetables, both in the cooked and raw forms. The following specimen meals will give you some idea of how starch may be used in proper combination with other foods:

1. Wholehearted muffins, cooked carrots and string beans.
2. Baked potato, cooked cucumbers, salad of grated carrots and lettuce.

3. Boiled whole rice, cooked asparagus and carrots, raw spinach.

There are really no vegetables which do not contain a small amount of starch, but the following list contains less than five per cent: celery, spinach, string beans, asparagus, summer squash, cucumbers, eggplant, beet tops, turnip tops, lettuce, okra, choyes, oyster plant, mallow, kale, zucchini, and even small beets, carrots, parsnips, and turnips contain as much as eight to twelve per cent of starch, but may usually be taken as non-starchy vegetables.

I will briefly explain to you just how food is digested in the stomach, and also in the intestines.

The digestion of food begins in the mouth, but only one kind of food is really digested by the saliva. That one food is starch. Meats, greens, fruit and other foods (except starches) are not in any way digested in the mouth except that mastication breaks these foods up into smaller particles. The ptyalin, or digestive ferment in the saliva, acts upon the starch, and partially converts it into sugar.

When a mixture of meat, bread and greens is taken into the stomach, the chemical action of the gastric juice changes the meat from protein into simpler forms so that it can be absorbed. The digestive juice of the stomach has no effect whatever upon the bread, and greens except to make them sour because of the one-half of one per cent hydrochloric acid contained in the juice.

The digestion of starch does not take place in the stomach, as there is no part of the gastric juice which has the property to act upon the starch. As the food passes into the intestines, the bile, which is alkaline, is mixed with the combination of bread, meat and greens, and if this mixture is already too acid the bile is capable of converting it into a liquid alkaline, most of which can then be acted upon by the amylase, steapsin, trypsin, and intestinal renin. These ferments chemically digest the different food elements, and can handle almost any mixture if enough bile has been combined with it.

The chief difficulty seems to be in getting bad mixtures through the stomach and into the intestines without setting up a conflict between the digestive juices of the stomach and those of the intestines. (My next article is on protein combinations).

REPARATION TOTAL MUST PAY WAR DEBT

CHAMBERY, France, Oct. 1.—Premier Poincaré, speaking here Sunday, made it clear that reparations payments must guarantee France's war debt, including those to the United States. In an address at the dedication of a monument to the war dead, the Premier said: "Concerning reparations, we must recall again that eventually settlement must equitably guarantee us through our debtors, the entire amount that we have to pay our creditors and the net indemnity for our war damages."

Loans Made in West Denote Prosperity

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 1.—Renewed prosperity in Western Canada is shown by an increase in the investments of loan and trust companies there, according to J. F. Weston, managing director of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, and president of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association, who delivered his presidential address at the annual meeting of the association here recently. From 1923 to 1926 there was a steady decline in the amount of money invested in Western mortgages, but in 1927 the amount invested by Ontario companies jumped to $155,176,944, as compared with $139,008,816 in 1926.

The amount of money administered by members of the association increased last year by $260,000,000 and now aggregates $2,500,000,000, the president stated. "These figures," he continues, "evidence prosperous conditions in Canada, the confidence of the public in the institutions represented in our association and the ever-growing appreciation by the public of the services which these institutions are rendering."

Due to the increased savings of the Canadian people, made available for investment, the mortgage borrower in Canada now enjoys very moderate rates of interest. He is in a more fortunate position as a rule than the borrower in most foreign countries, and rates as a rule are slightly lower than before the disruption of credit brought about by the war.

KILLED BY STREET CAR

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1.—Hurled a distance of sixty-five feet, across the sidewalk and into a vacant lot, Mrs. A. D. Munro, seventy-nine, Seventeenth Avenue West, met almost instant death, when the automobile in which she was a passenger was struck by a Fairview street car at Broadway and Manitoba Street, Sunday evening.

Three other persons who were in the automobile, including the driver, were seriously hurt and are now in the General Hospital, while Mrs. Munro, T. E. Mills, in charge of the street car, is out on bonds of $5,000 on a charge of manslaughter.

WE MODERNS

AT THE TABLE

EVEN our daily diets are catching the "modern" spirit to-day! We eat, to an alarming degree, foods which are "highly refined," deftly prepared to appeal to our appetites—with the age-old demands of Nature for proper nourishment, practically forgotten. And that is why malnutrition has crept into so many homes to-day—leaving men, women and children open to all manner of more serious illnesses.

But a modern food has been created to overcome this modern diet evil. It is one of the most delicious foods you ever tasted. It is easily digested. And note the precious balanced nourishment this food—Grape-Nuts—gives your body! It furnishes dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body-building; and the essential vitamin-B.

Your grocer sells Grape-Nuts—in wax-wrapped packages. It is ready to eat, with milk or cream. And it is most inexpensive. Four spoonfuls, costing less than one cent, is an average serving.

Grape-Nuts is Good for Your Teeth!

Doctors and dentists everywhere stress the importance of including crisp foods in your daily diet to give healthy exercise to your teeth, gums and facial muscles. Also because chewing prepares the digestive secretions of the stomach for their work. Grape-Nuts is a deliciously crisp—you like to chew its golden kernels.

ALPINE CLUB PLAN OCTOBER OUTINGS

Expeditions to Mt. Braden and Mt. Finlayson to Take Place—Programme Arranged

The Vancouver Island section of the Alpine Club will have two October outings, the first on Saturday, October 6, to Mt. Braden; the second, on Saturday, October 20, to Mt. Finlayson. The Mt. Braden expedition will leave town at 10 a.m. and will be an easy walk; the Finlayson expedition will leave the city at 9 a.m. and will separate into two parties, one climbing the mountain and the other taking a less strenuous trip in the district. Mr. C. L. Harrison will lead the former. Intending climbers are reminded that the rules laid down for dress and equipment must be observed. Members will carry the usual luncheon provisions, except that tea will be provided. In addition to these outdoor events the club, in co-operation with the Tourist and Trade group of the Chamber of Commerce, will have an evening meeting on Wednesday, October 24, when Mr. C. L. Harrison will show pictures of the Forbidden Plateau camp and the Sooke Valley camp held earlier in the summer. Admission to this evening entertainment will be by invitation, and members of the Alpine Club who wish to attend should send their names to Mrs. Kerr, phone 6490L, so that seats may be reserved. Invitations are being sent to all the service and tourist clubs and to the Victoria and Oak Bay High Schools.

When teeth are glistening white EVEN THEN..

4 out of 5 are Pyorrhea's victims

UNAWARE of the fact that all is not well even when teeth are gleaming white, 4 out of 5 after forty and thousands younger pay the high penalty for self-neglect. They sacrifice health to Pyorrhea.

Take this precaution: See your dentist twice annually. And start using the dentifrice that keeps teeth so clean and white and at the same time helps to safeguard health against this foe.

Morning and night, every day, use Forhan's for the gums. Without the use of harsh abrasives, it restores teeth to their natural whiteness and protects them against acids which cause decay. Also, if used regularly and in time, it helps to firm gums, keep them strong and healthy. Pyorrhea seldom attacks healthy gums.

Get a tube of Forhan's. Use this dentifrice regularly and massage your gums daily with Forhan's following directions in booklet that comes with tube. Teach your children this good habit. It will protect their precious health in the years to come. Two sizes—35c and 60c.

Men and Affairs across the Line

NO two countries have closer relations than Canada and the United States. The recent exchange of Ministers between the two was the natural result of a need for closer contact to further mutual interests.

Likewise, to keep the Canadian public thoroughly and reliably informed on American affairs and movements, a special Southam News Bureau has been established in Washington.

Its function is to give Southam newspaper readers faithful pictures of the United States' attitude on all matters involving herself and Canada; to interpret her stand on Empire affairs and to secure first-hand information on such World-topics as the Kellogg Peace Pact, Mexico and Nicaragua.

In so vast a country, much of the domestic news, too, is of general interest. The Southam News Bureau, on the ground, gets this news for the Southam newspapers. Presidential campaigns; prohibition; sports; agricultural and flood relief measures; financial and industrial moves and similar events and activities, are covered in a comprehensive manner.

In other words, through the Southam Washington News Bureau, Southam newspaper readers are shown what the United States actually thinks and does... a service emphasizing the group strength of the Southam organization and increasing the individual value of each member newspaper to its constituents.
